

Report Russia Demands End of Neutrality Plan

Wants Franco-Spanish Border Opened to Help Loyalists
SEEKING EQUALITY
Asks Opportunity to Give More Help to Government

BULLETIN
Geneva—(AP)—The League of Nations political committee's resolution threatening an end to non-intervention in the Spanish civil war failed today to receive the necessary unanimous vote of the assembly.

London—(AP)—The Soviet Union was reported today to have demanded abandonment of the entire Spanish non-intervention scheme, permitting shipment of arms and volunteers to bolster forces of the Valencia government. It was reliably learned that the communist state, urged in a note to Lord Plymouth, chairman of the virtually inactive non-intervention committee of 27 nations, that the Franco-Spanish frontier be thrown open to such help.

Diplomats said the Russian move would form the basis for further Russian negotiations to obtain greater equality of opportunity to help the leftist-inclined republican government of the war-torn nation. The note said that the old non-intervention naval patrol ceased to be effective when France and Britain withdrew their warships—following similar action of Germany and Italy.

Warcraft of the four powers had comprised the cordon around Spain to prevent shipments by water of volunteers and war materials.

Situation Tense
The Russian demand, together with the chilling prospect of an Italian-German military push to force the Valencia government before winter sets in and what was believed to be Italy's impending refusal even to talk formally about her intervention in Spain, created a tense tangle of affairs.

Out of it, France and Britain feared, may come general European warfare. Persons favoring the Spanish government insisted that its insurgent forces were aided by abandonment of the sea patrol while the government was hampered by the continued control of France's Spanish frontier.

The Russian note was described as a reply to a plan to rebuild the non-intervention system which was submitted by technical advisers recently and to which the various governments represented in the London committee thus far had raised objections only to minor details.

Informed diplomats said Russia was taking the new stand alone. France was not expected to endorse it.

May Embarrass France
Some sources thought the soviet demand for a reopened frontier might embarrass France, who is holding the same threat over Premier Mussolini to force cooperation with France and Britain in getting Italian soldiers out of Spain.

An authoritative forecast that Premier Mussolini would coldly reject efforts of Paris-London diplomats to talk him into calling fascists home added to the worried concern in the two capitals over the future of the 14-month-old "international" civil war.

Diplomatic quarters said the report had reached them that the Italian premier on his recent pageant visit to Chancellor Hitler of Germany had agreed on joint aid to the Spanish insurgents through a devastating air attack on Madrid and a powerful offensive on the Aragon and Teruel fronts.

Mentions Reich Planes
The report was said to mention that a total of 350 German planes would be used but there was no indication whether they would be sent to Spain or already were there. Sufficient Italian troops would be rushed into eastern and northern Spain, the Teruel and Aragon fronts quickly to terminate the months of warfare there, according to the report.

Battle Rages Fifth Day in Shanghai Area

Japanese Fail to Break Down Strong Chinese Resistance

NEW PLANE RAIDS

Aerial Attacks are Reported in Central and Southern Zones

BY JAMES A. MILLS

Shanghai—(AP)—Chinese and Japanese troops fought each other to a standstill today in the fifth day of battle for Shanghai's North station, where the Chinese defense line anchored only a stone's throw from the foreign settlement. While Japanese warships in the Whangpoo river blanketed the area with a barrage of shells, planes dropped demolition bombs on Chapei and several burned, blackened areas formerly in Shanghai's foreign districts.

This correspondent again spent hours with the British Welch fusiliers, within close view of the desperate hand-to-hand combat centering around the Pantheon theater.

At nightfall, the Chinese still were stubbornly holding the theater despite a series of Japanese thrusts to dislodge them.

Once, about mid-morning, I saw a Japanese patrol advance under cover of an armored car to a sand-bag barricade within 25 yards of a Chinese pillbox.

Attack Fails
After spasmodic firing and several vain attempts by Japanese marines to dash into a row of foreign houses adjoining the theater, the patrol withdrew.

The heavy fighting in the Chapei district resulted in the destruction of one of Shanghai's gayest white-light districts, located on the Jukong road, once crowded with soldiers and sailors making the rounds of its cabarets, bars and dance halls.

After the Japanese sent wave after wave of tank charges against a defense position, the inventive Chinese devised a unique method of stalling the tanks. They shaped torn-up railroad tracks into what looked like inverted cow-catchers.

These held the tanks long enough for Chinese machine-guns to in-

CIO Director Raps Federation Head

Says Group Wants Unity
But Not Along 'Company Unions' Lines

Milwaukee—(AP)—Gunnar Mickelson, state CIO director, told the state convention today that Wisconsin CIO seeks unity, but not along the lines of the "company unions" of William Green, president of the A. F. of L.

Mickelson said "we can forgive Wisconsin's A. F. of L. leaders for failing to seize the opportunity of being the first to split up, but we can never forgive them for splitting local unions, expelling progressive officers, and playing the role of strike-breakers."

A recommendation of the resolution committee today brought the delegates into a debate on organizing the building trades industry, A. F. of L. stronghold. The delegates finally agreed with the committee recommendation in rejecting the organization plans. Meyer, chairman of the CIO to limit its activities to "organizing the unorganized."

A. U. W. delegates said Homer Martin, their president, would speak at the convention today.

Van A. Bittner, Chicago, midwest director of the Steel Workers Organization Committee, voiced a challenge to Tom Girdler, chairman of the board of Republic Steel Corp., to "sign up with the S. W. O. C. or go out of business."

Heavy Rainfall Result Of Storms Off Louisiana

New Orleans—(AP)—Twin storms in the Gulf of Mexico off the Louisiana coast today brought to New Orleans a tropical deluge of rain, more than 12 inches in 24 hours.

The area of the disturbance extended from Florida to Texas. The rain, still continuing here at noon, was the second heaviest on record for New Orleans and was nearing the 140 inches mark of the downpour that flooded the city in 1927.

The Tulane university athletic officials announced postponement of the Tulane-Auburn football game scheduled for this afternoon, because the gridiron was under three feet of water. The game was set for 2:30 Monday afternoon.

Phone Call Seen As Effort to Open Ransom Discussion

Chicago—(AP)—A telephone call from a gruff-voiced man was regarded today by investigators as a possible attempt by the kidnapers of wealthy Charles S. Ross to start negotiations for a ransom.

The call was received at the Ross apartment shortly after the arrival in Chicago of Earl J. Connelly, investigator for the federal bureau of investigation. Connelly was informed of the man said:

"Take this down. This is Bob of New York. We have Ross, but the federal agents have the wires tapped and we cannot make contact. This is not a prank."

Connelly said the man would be assured, if he called again, that the wires were not tapped and that he was free to contact the wife of the kidnapers' victim.

Ross was kidnaped last Saturday night on a Highway 15 miles west of Chicago while returning with his former secretary, Miss Florence Freihage, from Sycamore, Ill.

Soviet Premier Under Arrest as Spy for Fascists

Other Officials Also Held For Separatist Movement Drive

Moscow—(AP)—Abdullah Rakhimov, premier of the Soviet Republic of Tadzhikistan and chairman of the central executive committee of the U. S. S. R., was removed today as a "spy of a foreign fascist country."

Treason charges were brought against Rakhimov. President Shirmsho Shotomov and three committee members of Tadzhikistan in a drive on anti-separatist movements.

Disclosure of the charges left no doubt that all five were under arrest.

Removal of Rakhimov, who had a harem of three wives, was a foregone conclusion after Pravda, the communist party newspaper, denounced him recently as a bourgeois nationalist "who sold himself to the intelligence service of a neighboring foreign state."

Shotomov was accused of protecting government employees who were spies. The commissars of justice, education and light industry, were charged with allowing industry to lag and nationalism to be taught in the schools.

Executions again were reported from several places in the province. Five grain workers were shot in Kazakhstan for mixing selected seed grain with ordinary grain.

Twenty thieves, including a woman, were executed at Irkutsk in an anti-crime drive.

Three grain spoliators were sentenced to death in Archangel.

British Warships Reported Carrying Four Arab Leaders to Ocean Island

Jerusalem—(AP)—British warships were reported today to have spirited four high Arab leaders toward Seychelles island in the Indian ocean after a secret transfer at sea while motorized troops and police kept the Holy Land quiet at machine gun point.

The cruiser Sussex which left Haifa at dawn with Dr. Hussein Khalidi and three others ordered deported returned later and it was believed the four had been transferred to another vessel that steamed directly to the island of banishment.

At the same time Jacob Hussein, leader of the Arab Youth organization, who was previously thought to have fled Palestine, was arrested.

The grand mufti of Jerusalem, another object of the British drive, clung to the protective holy walls of the Mosque of Omar, protected by a guard of 200 Arab Muslims sworn to defend the Moslem spiritual leader to the death.

They stood at the entrance of the mufti's private apartments within the holiest Moslem sanctuary in this ancient city.

British mandate authorities apparently hesitated to storm the mosque and seize him, in the fear that such a trespass upon the Arabian holy ground might stir up disorder even greater than the terrorism they sought to stamp out.

Several Arab leaders were arrested in the swift drive yesterday, precipitated by last Sunday's assassination of the British commissioner of Galilee and his bodyguard.

Major Issues Up at Coming Court Session

More Than 400 Cases Will Be Decided by Supreme Tribunal

NEW DEAL AFFECTED

Black Controversy in Limelight During Early Part of Term

Washington—(AP)—The supreme court session beginning Monday is an important one on its merits, aside from the overshadowing controversy on the fitness and eligibility of its freshman member, Hugo L. Black.

More than 400 cases, some of them vitally affecting administration legislation, are on file.

They include such important parts of President Roosevelt's program as the system of granting federal aid for municipal power plants, the Home Owners' corporation, the Tennessee Valley authority, and the 1936 act broadening regulation of commodity exchanges.

For a little while at least, the Black case will dominate the court's proceedings after the new justice takes his seat at one end of the high bench.

Albert Levitt, formerly a federal judge in the Virgin Islands, has asked the court to refuse a seat to the new justice on constitutional grounds.

Judges Challenge
His petition will contend that Black is ineligible because he was a member of the Ku Klux Klan, which passed an act permitting federal judges to retire at 70 on full pay.

The Constitution forbids appointment to an office of any member of a congress which increased the emoluments of that office.

Passage of the retirement act opened the way for President Roosevelt to appoint the Alabama senator, Justice Willis Van Devanter, to the advantage of its terms last June.

Senator Borah (R-Idaho) has argued that there is no vacancy, that since Van Devanter retired subject to call, wherever he could be of service, he still is actually a member of the court. Other senators dismissed such objection as trivial or technical.

The supreme court justices, under normal procedure, will consider Levitt's petition along with others submitted during the recess, and will announce Oct. 11 whether they will hear arguments.

If they deny the petition, the case dies.

Of the other cases before the court this term, most interest is centered on further objections to the Wagner labor relations act and challenges of the government's right to make loans and grants for publicly owned hydro electric plants.

Lumber Salesman Is Facing Arson Charge

Oshkosh—(AP)—Edward F. Oatman, Illinois lumber salesman, today was under $5,000 bond awaiting preliminary examination Oct. 15 on a charge of arson.

Oatman, waiving extradition from Dayton, Ohio, appeared voluntarily yesterday before Municipal Judge Henry Hughes.

Oatman was the owner of an apartment house under construction in Omro, which burned in July. His caretaker, Floyd Locke, pleaded guilty Sept. 24 to an arson charge and will be sentenced next Thursday.

Locke claimed Oatman had offered him $100 to set the structure afire, but had paid him only $10.

Kindergartens Reopen Next Monday in Chicago

Chicago—(AP)—A decline in the number of reported infantile paralysis cases brought from the board of health today an announcement that public and parochial school kindergartens would be permitted to open Monday.

Chicago schools originally were scheduled to open Sept. 7. High school classes started after a nine-day delay and upper grade classes met for the first time Monday.

First graders went back Thursday. Dr. Herman N. Burdick, health board president, said only four new cases and two suspected cases were reported for the last 24 hours. The total for the week was 16 verified cases, compared with 24 last week.

Reach Settlement in Great Lakes Strike

Buffalo, N. Y.—(AP)—Officials of the Great Lakes Transit corporation announced today the CIO "sit-down" strike was settled at 1:33 a. m. CST details of the settlement were not revealed in the first announcement.

The announcement came at the end of a 15-hour conference between owners' representatives and union leaders in the office of Henry J. Winters, regional director of the national labor relations board.

John J. Meenan, assistant to the president of the corporation, announced shortly before the conclusion of the conference that both sides had reached a tentative agreement providing for an employees' election.

Union Official Shot To Death in New York

Justice Black Denies He Is Member of Klan; Starts Duties Monday

BLACK ANSWERS 'KLAN' CHARGE

Associate Justice Hugo L. Black of the United States Supreme court turned the radio to deny that he is now a member of the Ku Klux Klan, although admitting he joined the hooded order about fifteen years ago. This picture of Black at the microphone was made March 19, 1936, when as a senator he told a radio audience that the American Liberty League was fighting the utility holding company bill.

5 Workmen are Killed In Sewer in Detroit

Detroit—(AP)—Five workmen were reported killed in a new interceptor sewer here this afternoon when hydraulic pressure destroyed an air lock.

Reports to police said 30 other men were trapped underground. Physicians were called to the scene.

A workman on the project said that a huge shield was being pushed through clay when sand was struck, five feet from a completed portion of the sewer. What the workers call a "sand boil" apparently resulted, and the shield collapsed.

Asks County Heads To Fight for Aid

Madison—(AP)—With the state Senate shifting back to Governor LaFollette's plan for a relief program on an emergency basis only, A. J. Thelen today urged all county board chairmen to contact their representatives if they want to see all county relief appropriation.

Thelen, who is secretary of the Wisconsin County Boards' association, contended the proposed surtaxes on gifts and inheritances will raise sufficient money to pay the 10 per cent straight allotment to counties as advocated by the association recently at Stevens Point.

Although it had once favored the association's plan, the senate reversed itself yesterday and endorsed the administration's bill which appropriates $3,000,000 to be used only among counties in financial distress.

It also reconsidered and defeated a proposal to allow $260,000 to reimburse 26 northern counties for unpaid relief bills incurred last year.

It is important that if you wish to maintain any of these amendments that you contact your senators and assemblymen at once as they will reconvene Monday. Thelen wrote to the county chairmen.

Covadonga Reported In Hands of Fascists

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Border—(AP)—The ancient village of Covadonga, sacred to patriotic Asturias as the burial place of their first king, was reported today to have capitulated to the thrust of a twentieth century war machine.

The village, 12 miles inland from the bay of Biscay and some 30 air miles southeast of Gijon, was the extreme eastern end of the Asturian defense line against what a Spanish insurgent army has been hammering for weeks.

The president's train was routed by Epizua, with motor car transportation to the dam site.

The president entered after telling the Asturian throng in a rear platform address that he had a "wonderful 230 miles of it" on his Olympic peninsula motor trip.

2 Milwaukeeans Killed By Illuminating Gas

Milwaukee—(AP)—Lucas Holisek, 51, and Joseph S. Liskach, 43, employees of the Milwaukee Gas Light company, were killed by illuminating gas escaping from a pipe in the bottom of an open air pit here yesterday.

A company fireman reported when he left the scene Holisek was in the pit attempting to disconnect a gas main. It was believed Lukach was overcome while endeavoring to lift Holisek out of the excavation.

A fire department rescue squad worked over the victims more than an hour.

Bay State Couple Wounded While Resisting Robber

Brockton, Mass.—(AP)—Giving battle when held up in their parked car, a Brockton couple was shot early today, the man probably critically, as the robber escaped.

Refusing to surrender their automobile, Arthur Gay, 32, was shot in the hand and when Gay fell wounded, his companion, Miss Sylvia Paulding, snatched a shoe off her foot and belabored the man on the head. He dragged her a short distance, shot her and fled, Miss Paulding told police.

Gay managed to drive the car a half mile to a nearby farmhouse, where he hid. The car was later stopped by a deputy sheriff and taken to a hospital where his name was placed on the danger list. He was wounded in the chest and right lung. Miss Paulding was shot in the left arm.

A man officers named as Leo Mockus, 33, was taken to the hospital. Miss Paulding, a high school junior, identified him as the man who shot her and Gay. Patrolman Joseph Getchell said.

No charges were placed against him.

Joined Order 15 Years Ago but Resigned, He Says

POINTS TO RECORD

Critics Vary in Their Comment on Alabama's Address

Washington—(AP)—Justice Hugo L. Black's emphatic denial that he is now a member of the Ku Klux Klan left no doubt today he will take his place on the supreme court bench next Monday.

For 12 minutes last night he broke all precedent to reply directly to those who have challenged, because of his Klan associations, his fitness to sit on the nation's highest tribunal.

Speaking slowly with a trace of soft southern drawl, Black told one of the largest American radio audiences on record:

"The insinuations of racial and religious intolerance made concerning me are based on the fact that I joined the Ku Klux Klan about 15 years ago.

"I did join the Klan. I later resigned. I never rejoined. What appeared then, or what appears now, on the records of the organization, I do not know."

Didn't Keep Card
"I never have considered and I do not now consider the unsolicited card given to me shortly after my nomination to the senate as a membership of any kind in the Ku Klux Klan. I never used it. I did not even keep it."

The new justice, who had been home from a European vacation for only 60 hours, sat alone in the modest living room of a friend's suburban residence. In an adjoining room were his wife and a score of other relatives and friends.

Far removed from the scene was President Roosevelt, whose nomination of Black stirred a controversy over senate confirmation, during which allegations of Klan membership were made.

Mr. Roosevelt, driving from Olympia to Tacoma, Wash., apparently did not hear Black's address. Secretary James Roosevelt said the address in his father's car was out of order, but was in other cars in the caravan were turned on.

Critics' Charges
Critics have attacked Black's appointment to the supreme court with the contention that Klan affiliation would prejudice him against the interest of Jews, Catholics and Negroes. The allegation was made in a series of newspaper stories that after becoming a clansman, Black had been given a life membership and that he still held it.

Some of his critics said their views had not changed by his speech. Senator Carter Glass (D-Va.), for instance, commented:

"I didn't think the appointment was a fit one, and I don't think so now. He said nothing that changed my conception of what should be the type of person appointed to the supreme court."

Black's supporters, on the other hand, lauded his address. Senator Burton K. Wheeler (D-Mont.), leader of the fight against the Roosevelt court bill, said:

Wheeler's Comment
"I think the speech was a fine explanation. I am sure he will do his utmost to decide matters that come before him fairly and conscientiously."

Several senators said they believed the matter should be considered closed, although some members of congress indicated they would have something to say at the next session.

Albert Levitt, former federal judge in the Virgin Islands, who has brought suit to prevent Black from holding his seat, said the speech was a "splendid statement" of Black's "own tolerance in all matters."

Oil Men to Cite Recovery Act at Trial in Madison

Claim Any Action on Prices Was Continuation of Code Provisions

Madison—The blue eagle, struck down by the United States Supreme court in 1935, will rear its head again in the federal government's anti-trust oil trial starting here next Monday.

Unofficially, defense headquarters of 24 oil companies and 47 individuals charged with conspiracy to fix gasoline prices, disclosed today the oil men will contend any action on their part to maintain prices was a continuation of stabilization activities under the oil code of the national recovery act.

Buying pools were sponsored under the code; buying pools are mentioned in the indictment as part of a conspiracy.

The defendants' position, as evidenced in statements during preliminary court skirmishes, was that the indictment charges them with doing what they were requested or required to do under the NRA.

Platt's Statement
W. C. Platt of Cleveland, president of Platt's Oilgram and the National Petroleum News and co-defendant, with these publicists has declared "the government's charge turns on whether a practice legally started and carried on under the recent NRA oil code was continued in illegal manner after the codes were killed by the United States Supreme court. . . . There seems to be some question as to when the oil administrator (Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes) and the department of justice withdrew their approval."

"Hot oil," often mentioned during the trial, is another name for this oil. This oil was produced in excess of limits imposed by the state of Texas for each well.

A source close to the defense declared the failure of jobbers to obtain gasoline at prices that prevailed in 1933 and 1934 "led them to claim that the direct cause of their failure to buy at prices which had been made possible by 'hot oil' and refineries operating at a loss in order to protect their capital investment, was the price fixing done by the major companies."

Grand Jury Probe
Jobbers' protests led to the grand jury investigation which resulted in the present indictment.

The government charges the companies signed jobbers to long-term contracts basing the price on the "spot market" in the oil fields, and then by paying excessive prices to small refiners forced up the market and so caused the entire price structure in 10 mid-west states to rise.

Judge Patrick T. Stone late yesterday denied a motion of Bernard L. Majewski, Chicago, vice president of the Deep Rock Oil corporation, for immediate trial with the other defendants. The government has summoned Majewski as a witness, and if he testifies, he will gain immunity from prosecution.

Hearing on Oshkosh Harbor Project Set

A public hearing on the proposed improvements to Miller Bay at Oshkosh will be held in the United States engineer's office in the federal building at Milwaukee on Monday, Oct. 2.

The River and Harbor act passed by congress this summer provides for a preliminary examination and survey of the bay as the first step in bettering its harbor facilities.

Interested parties, particularly navigation interests and officials of counties, cities and towns affected have been invited to attend the hearing and anyone wishing will be given an opportunity to express views on the matter.

Payrolls in State Gained in August

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington—August employment in Wisconsin industries declined slightly from July, while payrolls showed a gain. Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins has announced.

According to the bureau of Labor Statistics report, August payrolls and employment in the country were higher than July and also above the level of August 1936. Approximately 43,000 workers were returned to employment between July and August and weekly payrolls in these combined industries in August were nearly $8,400,000 greater than in July. Compared with August 1936, employment increased 1,100,000 and payrolls $84,100,000.

In Wisconsin, 2,861 firms reported a decline of 3.1 per cent in number of persons employed in August compared with July and, while wages, totaling $5,972,822, increased 1.9 per cent.

The decline in employment in Wisconsin is due largely to recessions in the canning industry there, according to Secretary Perkins, although employment in the industry in the country as a whole increased 32.6 per cent. Payrolls in the canning industry increased 20 per cent.

Teach Conservation in County Schools This Year

Conservation is one of the new subjects being taught in Outagamie county rural schools this year, according to Henry J. VanStraten, county superintendent of schools.

It is not a single subject, he explains, but an area of learning and a way of living. Its facts extend into all fields of study and instruction which contribute most to citizenship. It will contribute most to conservation. It should be taught for enjoyment and not for examinations, he points out.

He urges organization of bird feeding clubs in every school in the county as it is a conservation activity which can easily be carried out and one in which all pupils in the school can participate. It also provides an excellent opportunity to correlate the project with language, art and reading.

Among correlated activities suggested by the school superintendent are discussions of birds children have seen visiting the feeder, making of posters and bird booklets, drawing and coloring bird pictures, writing letters about birds, and the bird feeding project and compositions on new birds visiting the feeders. A contest may be held in making posters, drawings and booklets on birds later in the year, he said.

Cashman Resumes Effort to Revise Drivers' Licenses

Denmark Senator Tacks Amendment on Governor's $750,000 Safety Bill

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Senator John E. Cashman of Denmark is preparing over the weekend to renew his fight in the legislature for the enactment of a driver's license law, provided in a bill of his authorship which was killed in the regular 1937 legislative session.

Cashman has introduced as a substitute amendment to the revised highway safety bill a proposal which is practically identical with his earlier license bill, which provided periodical and compulsory examinations for all drivers, and revocation of licenses upon conviction for traffic offenses.

It will be considered in the senate Monday or Tuesday, Cashman predicted, and other members have been invited by the author to submit amendments for safety education, highway patrolmen, and other features originally called for in the administration's huge highway safety promotion program. Cashman, however, will ask that the highway commission be limited to 25. The original LaFollette bill asked for 75, and an annual $750,000 appropriation.

During the regular 1937 legislative session, Senator Cashman fought strenuously for the enactment of his drivers' license bill, which was supported by national and state safety councils. He succeeded in getting it through the senate with little difficulty, but upon reaching the assembly it languished until adjournment without decisive action, except for some amendment which wrecked the most important features in the measure.

Yesterday Cashman hailed his effort "as the best bill of its kind ever introduced in any legislature in the United States."

Conservation Film Widely Recognized

Junior High School Activities Here Get National Publicity

The Junior Isaac Walton motion picture film depicting conservation activities at Junior high schools in the city has received national recognition, according to a letter received by Kenneth H. Corbett, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, from Guy J. Barlow, principal of Wilson Junior high.

In thanking the chamber of commerce for its financial aid with the making of the film, Barlow points to the publicity which it has received elsewhere.

Junior Isaac Walton leagues of Kaukauna and Nebraskia plan to use the film during their state convention programs to be held this month.

The "Outdoor America" magazine, official organ for Waltonian activities has written several articles on the film's production. The bureau of visual instruction of the University of Wisconsin has reproduced a copy which will be distributed along with others in their free traveling library.

The film, showing youths planting trees and engaging in other conservation work has been shown widely in Appleton and vicinity.

Black Talk Opens Question on Using Radio Facilities

Only President Given Use Of Combined Hookup Before, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—All the broadcasting companies did an unprecedented thing with the speech of former Senator Black—they gave it all their networks and no chain program of any kind competed with the address.

This is a privilege granted heretofore only to a president of the United States. Simultaneous hookups are rare occurrences anyway and the broadcasting companies have hitherto insisted that only the president was entitled to these facilities and that they therefore could not extend them to any other individual for the purpose of making a reply.

The black episode opens up an interesting question on the use of radio facilities. Mr. Black himself said he wanted to use the radio so the people could hear him and so that there would be no danger of being misquoted. This is a rather surprising statement, coming from a man who is supposed to have had experience in public life. No man holding public office here ever gave out the text of a prepared statement for publication that was misquoted. And Mr. Black surely underestimated the news interest of the public in his klan connections when he assumed that the newspapers generally wouldn't print the whole of his statement.

But is the radio fair? This is a query that will be raised now that Black himself raises a question about the unfairness of the press. In the first place, the press today prints the Black speech, and with it comments from other persons. Over the radio, Mr. Black had an audience to which no reply was addressed. There was no chance for a rebuttal speech, no opportunity given to any senator or representative to answer the former senator from Alabama.

The will be given, to be sure, facilities next week at odd intervals for senators or representatives to reply to Mr. Black's address, but the audience will not be the same. The broadcasting companies will not unite to give simultaneous hookups and joint facilities to anyone making a reply.

Knows Audience
Mr. Black knows, of course, that there are many millions of persons in the United States without sufficient intelligence to read newspapers. There are others with plenty of intelligence who can understand English, but cannot read it. Others have poor eyesight and so there is a certain part of the audience who will hear only one side of the Black controversy.

The radio broadcasting companies did the right thing in granting Mr. Black all their facilities. He reserved every opportunity to answer all the criticism leveled at him. But why do the radio broadcasting companies refuse to grant the other side of the case equal advantages?

Thus, when Attorney General Cummings made a broadcast in support of the president's court proposal last spring, he had three networks simultaneously, but Senator Wheeler of Montana, Democrat, leader of the opposition, was denied a similar hookup. Also the broadcasting companies have insisted that they could tie up news sources and get what they call "exclusive rights" to certain broadcasts if the man making the speech entered into an agreement to bar their competitors. No public official has the ethical right to give his formally prepared speeches or statements to any single newspaper or group of newspapers or to any single broadcasting system. To do so is to use public office in a discriminatory way. Mr. Black very properly refused to grant any one broadcasting company exclusive rights to broadcast his address, and that's why all the companies were permitted to broadcast it on equal terms.

But what about the reply? What about the American desire for fair debate? Will the broadcasting companies some day present both sides

4 Communicable Disease Cases Reported in Week

Only four cases of communicable diseases were reported in Outagamie county during the week ended Sept. 23, according to a report of the Wisconsin State Board of Health received by Miss Marie Klein, county nurse. Two cases of poliomyelitis were reported in the city of Kaukauna and two cases of scarlet fever in the city of Appleton.

Hog Cholera Cases Found in Fifteen Counties of State

Outagamie County Free Of Disease, Agricultural Agent Reports

Widespread occurrence of hog cholera in Wisconsin was reported today by Dr. W. Wisnicky, state director of livestock sanitation. R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agricultural agent, said today that no cases have been reported in Outagamie county.

Fifteen counties in widely separated areas have notified the department of agriculture and markets of the existence of the disease in menacing proportions within their borders. Dr. Wisnicky revealed. These include Green, Winnebago, Buffalo, Calumet, Ashland, Rock, Langlade, Jefferson, Rock, Walworth, Trempealeau, Columbia, Dodge, Dunn, and Fond du Lac.

Thirty-five farms had reported outbreaks of hog cholera early in September and there may be other recent cases not yet reported.

The department of agriculture and markets is exercising strict sanitary regulation to prevent the spread of the disease. Dr. Wisnicky pointed out, but in spite of its efforts some hogs are being transported into Wisconsin illegally.

Help Control
Persons who know of these illegal practices can assist the department materially in its efforts to control the disease by reporting such practices, he said.

Dr. Wisnicky attributed the outbreaks partly to the purchase of feeding and breeding pigs in widely scattered sources as a result of favorable market prices for finished hogs. The price situation, he explained, has stimulated new interest in hog-raising.

Other reasons for occurrence of the infection can be traced to feeding of garbage containing pork scraps, and the spreading of the disease by means of trucks which are not thoroughly cleaned and disinfected after hauling each load of livestock.

Methods to be followed in controlling the disease were given as follows:
1. Report to the department of agriculture and markets all cases on the same night by arranging in advance for an answer from someone of prominence, especially when a controversial subject of vital importance to the American people is at stake. That's the only effective way to reach the same audience through the same stations.

About 314 stations tuned in on the Black speech—the biggest ever hooked together. The broadcasting companies will very rightly say that the precedent they established in the case of former Senator Black was based on extraordinary news interest. That's true. But there could have been equally extraordinary interest if the broadcasting companies had asked Senator Burke of Nebraska, Democrat, author of the original charges made in the senate, whether he cared to speak in reply for a half hour or so immediately after Mr. Black had concluded? If the radio is to be a forum for fair debate, it can be useful. If it is to be the vehicle of demagoguery for the major use of the administration in power and its appointees, then "freedom of the radio" will soon be recognized as a hollow mockery.

Valley Legislators Eager To Finish Special Session

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—If Governor LaFollette decides not to amend his legislative call for further legislation and allow the legislature to end its work after its disposal of the relief question, Fox River Valley members of both houses will not be disappointed.

Along with legislators from other districts not particularly concerned about the relief question, Valley members make no secret of the fact that they would like an early adjournment and a return to their private affairs. Their constituents are not pressing them for an emergency relief appropriation, and listening to the arguments of lawmakers from other sections of the state is not especially fascinating to those who have business at home to occupy their time and attention.

Senators Michael F. Kresky, Green Bay, and Herman J. Severson of Iowa, Progressives, are supporting the administration's relief proposals, but are not convinced that there is an urgent need for relief. Severson told the governor before the session was called that an emergency relief appropriation is not necessary.

Senators Mike Mack, Shiocton Republican, and John E. Cashman, Independent Progressive from Denmark, are willing enough to provide funds for relief, but would like to see the houses act with more dispatch. Both Cashman and Mack are criticizing the governor for leaving his office most of last week while a rebellious legislature tangled up his program almost beyond recognition.

Had he remained and used his influence, they feel, relief would have been disposed of by this time, and they could either be at home attending to their farms or acting on a farm program here.

Senator Pierce Morrissey, Rush Lake Democrat, who represents a good slice of the Valley area in Winnebago and Calumet counties while saying little, is thoroughly without sympathy for the administration's request for a relief appropriation, and is voting against all relief bills, in the belief that the time has come when localities can once more handle their own local difficulties.

Assemblymen would also like to get home. Among them are Henry Hupfaut of Calumet county, a Democrat, whose district now has the lowest relief load and relief cost of any county in Wisconsin, William Rohan, Kaukauna Democrat, whose constituents are expecting old age pension legislation for which he has given up hope this session, Mark Catlin of Appleton, a Republican who opposed the idea of a special session, and is one of the leaders of the conservative opposition to the LaFollette program in the house, William Sweeney of De Pere, who points out that Brown county is handling its relief problem without difficulty, and Harold A. Lytle of Green Bay, another Democrat who advised the governor a month ago not to call a special session.

The other day, when northern assemblymen were relating their relief woes, Lytle declared that a delegation from Florence county, one of these supposedly stricken helplessness with the relief problem, and asked him to vote against a relief appropriation. The delegation said, comparing that farm and other help in Florence county is difficult to obtain because relief clients prefer to remain on relief rolls and WPA jobs.

Divides County For Health Work

County Nurse to Spend One Week a Month in Each District

In order to facilitate health work in Outagamie county schools, the health department has been sectioned into four districts by Miss Mary Ziegenghagen, county nurse. She will spend one week in the various schools in each district once a month.

Check up work on defects is being done at the present time. Teachers and parents are asked by the nurse to report any cases to her during the time she is spending in their district.

Following are the towns in the various districts: 1—Deer Creek, Maine, Maple Creek, Bovina and Liberty; 2—Circero, Seymour, Black Creek, Osborn and Oneida; 3—Hortonville, Dale, Ellington and Greenville; 4—Center, Grand Chute, Freedom, Vandenberg, Kaukauna and Buchanan.

Health work will start in the first district Monday, Miss Klein said.

Approximately 90 per cent of all persons enrolled in school go to public educational institutions and 10 per cent to private schools.

The Dog Owner and His Dog

—BY ALLAN KERR

Through the years a number of great breeds of dogs have come in for their share of romance. The big St. Bernard, he of the noble head and powerful frame, has been pictured many times with the little keg of spirits tied about his neck, searching the Alpine snows for the lost traveler. Stories of the marvelous intelligence of the collie while tending stock, have been handed down from generation to generation.

The almost unbelievable feats of the German shepherd in the front lines during the world war is now history. Readers of tales of the frozen north have thrilled to the deeds of courage and stamina which characterized the tireless work of the huskies that made up the dog-sled teams, the only reliable transportation in the Arctic wastes.

But in spite of all this romantic background, what are the dog pictures that appear on so many magazine covers, decorate the walls of the den and are used on numerous high class calendars? You guessed it the bird dog. Sometimes it is the pointer, frozen on a stylish point, or perhaps it is a setter, either English, Irish or Gordon. Often both pointers and setters will be shown.

Have Beauty, Style

These are the dogs that are with us always. They are the dogs that have grown up with the country, the dogs that America has learned to love. Beauty, style, kindly disposition, loyalty, intelligence, speed, endurance; these are the qualities of the good bird dog, the attributes so dear to American sportsmen, their wives and children. Perhaps they were called virtues by our forefathers years before our country was thought of.

Whatever they may be called, we know that they are the real qualifications so eagerly sought in a canine companion, and so beautifully exemplified in the bird dogs, the pointers and the setters.

The pointer is just what his name implies. He will work acre after acre of all kinds of ground in search of quail, chicken, grouse, pheasant and other game birds. He is most business-like in his performance and will range fast and wide. The body scent of a bird will stop him in his tracks and, if well trained, he will hold his rigid pose until the master orders him to flush.

It is at such times that the pointer often strikes the attitude for which the bird dogs are famous. Body tense, head up, tail straight out or slightly raised and one front foot lifted. The pose is almost standard with many illustrators, but actually, the bird dog should hold the position that he finds himself in when the game is first scented. The

Weekend Greeted By Dull Weather

Unsettled Conditions To-night and Tomorrow, Weatherman Says

Appleton football fans headed for today's games in this vicinity and other parts of the state in unimproving weather as the morning dawned with a bleak, black sky overhead and of impending rain in the air.

The words "unsettled" and "probably light rains" constitute the weatherman's forecast for Appleton and the state in general tonight and tomorrow.

During the 24-hour period preceding 9 o'clock this morning, the highest temperature in the city was 57 and the lowest 47, according to records at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company plant. The temperature remained consistent today, standing at 53 at 1 o'clock this afternoon, and is expected to stay in the lower fifties tomorrow.

Phoenix, Ariz., with 98 and Winnemucca, Nevada, with 36 produced the high and low temperatures in the nation yesterday.

Condition of Man Injured in Fatal Quarrel Improved

Philip Sebastian Visited at Green Bay Hospital By Son Joseph

The condition of Philip Sebastian, who is confined to a hospital at Green Bay with wounds received in a fatal quarrel with his wife at their home in the town of Hobart, Brown county, Wednesday, was reported improved today.

Sebastian's throat was cut by his wife, he alleges, after she forced him to drink kerosene. He told Brown county authorities he then killed her with an axe.

His son, Joseph, a former marriage learned of the tragedy yesterday at his home in Chicago from a newspaper. He immediately purchased a new car and drove to Green Bay this morning with his wife.

After visiting with his father, Joseph informed police he was told the same story Sebastian had given authorities. Sebastian told his son his wife had cut his throat while he was drinking the kerosene. She threatened him with the knife, he told his son, and then attacked him as he followed her orders.

Sebastian will be arraigned when he recovers.

Highlights of Speech

Washington — (P) — Highlights in the address of Justice Hugo L. Black:

I joined the Ku Klux Klan about 15 years ago. I later resigned. I never rejoined. What happened then, or what appears now, on the records of the organization, I do not know.

I never have considered and I do not now consider an unaffiliated card given me shortly after my nomination to the senate as a membership of any kind in the Ku Klux Klan. I never used it. I did not even keep it.

No words have ever been or will ever be spoken by me, directly or indirectly, indicating that any native or foreign-born person in our free country should or could be restricted in his right to worship according to the dictates of his conscience.

I have no sympathy with any organization or group which, anywhere or at any time, arrogates to itself the un-American power to interfere in the slightest degree with complete religious freedom.

Any program, even if directed by good intention, which tends to breed or revive religious discord or antagonism, can and may spread with such rapidity as to imperil this vital constitutional protection of one of the most sacred of human rights.

I believe the character and conduct of every public servant, great and small, should be subject to the constant scrutiny of the people. This must be true if a democracy serves its purpose.

Battle Raging in Shanghai Region During Fifth Day

Heavy losses on Japanese infantry advancing behind them.

Chinese commanders declared 200 Japanese were killed in close-quarter fighting around the North station.

U. S. Marines Active

I saw more than a dozen shells spew up clouds of debris and smoke after scoring direct smashes against the North station administration building.

The Sixth United States marines, also on the edge of heavy fighting in their sector along the Soochow creek, completed a new row of machine-gun nests giving them a complete sweep of the embattled district on Shanghai's north side.

On other fronts in central and south China, Japanese warplanes renewed their raids. A squadron of five planes bombed the city of Luish, about 30 miles southeast of Nanking, China's capital.

Japanese naval officers declared a Japanese plane sunk a Chinese cruiser in the Yangtze river between Nanking and the sea off the Kiangyin forts and forced another Chinese warship aground.

In the mountainous eastern sector of northern Shansi.

Evidently waterborne Chinese forces gained there has been wiped out by successful Japanese advances from Tatung, a railroad junction on the Peiping-Suiyuan line, near the northeast corner of Shansi.

Japanese dispatches declared 10 Chinese divisions are in headlong flight south from Taichow and are suffering heavy losses as Japanese warplanes catch them jammed at narrow passes.

There are two communist divisions now in northern Shansi but the retreating troops primarily are provincials of questionable military value.

Chinese Hopes Fade

The reports dispelled the hopes of Chinese, recently buoyed by reports that a red army, under command of General Chu Teh, famous Chinese communist commander, had annihilated a Japanese division.

ters affecting religious freedom" and that it disposes of the Klan issue.

"His speech, however, did not in any way affect the question I have raised concerning his eligibility under the constitution to serve as an associate justice of the supreme court," Levitt said in New York.

Basis of Suit

The suit is based on the contention the new justice was a member of congress when it passed the supreme court retirement act. This, Levitt argued, increased the emoluments of justices by giving them full pay even if retired.

He cited the constitutional bar against a congressman holding an office whose emoluments have been increased during his term.

Levitt's request to present arguments will come before the court Monday shortly after Black takes his seat. The justices may reject it at once or may agree to hear arguments for and against the plea.

Black's speech, in which he said he believed his record as a senator refuted any implication of intolerance, criticized any "program" or "effort" to arouse discord among the nation's religious or racial groups.

"I have no sympathy," he said, "with any organization which, anywhere or at any time, arrogates to itself the un-American power to interfere in the slightest degree with complete religious freedom."

Says Issue Closed

"No words have ever been or ever will be spoken by me, directly or indirectly, indicating that any native or foreign-born person in our free country should or could be restricted in his right to worship according to the dictates of his conscience."

Black said in firm tones that the public has heard the last from him on the Klan issue.

"When this statement is ended," he said, "my discussion of the question is closed."

Thus he drew about himself the traditional cloak of silence of a supreme court justice preparatory to undertaking his full judicial duties when the court resumes Monday after its summer recess. He has been on the pay roll since he took the oath of office Aug. 19.

In short sentences, uttered without emotion, the former Democratic senator from Alabama spoke into microphones which carried his speech over three nationwide chains to 285 stations.

Discussing his 11 years in the senate, he said:

"It (my record) shows that I was one of that group of liberal senators who have consistently fought for the civil, economic and religious rights of all Americans, without regard to race or creed."

"Before becoming a senator I dropped the Klan. I have had nothing whatever to do with it since that time. I abandoned it. I completely discontinued any association with the organization. I have never resumed it and never expect to do so."

"At no meeting of any organization, social, political or fraternal, have I ever indicated the slightest departure from my steadfast faith in matters of religion."

Among his friends, he said, "are many members of the colored race."

Lauds Negroes' Progress

"I have watched the progress of its members with sympathy and admiration," he added. "Certainly they are entitled to the full measure of protection accorded to the citizenship of our country by our constitution and our laws."

He said also that some of his "best and most intimate friends are Catholics and Jews."

One of the "most valued friendships" of his life, he continued was "with a son of the Jewish race." Mrs. H. L. Beck of Birmingham Ala., the widow of that man, "was one of the first to congratulate me upon my nomination to be a justice of the supreme court."

Black began his first public utterance as a justice with a reference to the constitution as "the supreme law of our land" and a characterization of the bill of rights as "the heart of the constitution."

Religious Liberty

"The constitutional safeguard to complete liberty of religious belief," he said, "is declaration of the greatest importance to the future of America as a nation of free people. Any movement or action by any group that threatens to bring about result inconsistent with this unrestricted individual right is a menace to freedom."

As to his reason for making the speech at all, he said:

"No ordinary maneuver executed for political advantage would justify a member of the supreme court in publicly discussing it."

"If, however, that maneuver

Men's Cooking Class At Vocational School Going Like Hot Cakes

The men's cooking class at the Vocational school is going to do pretty well for itself, but the bachelors and husbands aren't exactly rushing into the course in meat carving that is being offered, it was reported yesterday.

Either the men in Appleton and vicinity are already proficient at slicing cooked fowls or are afraid to chance it in public for fear of awkwardness, but meat carving registrations have been slim.

The class in meat cooking, though it already is well stocked, is open to three or four more. Miss Mabel Burke, homemaking division director, said yesterday.

This class will meet on Friday nights, which is a good spot, it has been pointed out, for the men will have the weekend in which to regain strength and good disposition after eating their own cooking.

Public Will Inspect Telephone Office on Monday and Tuesday

Citizens of this city, the first in the state to have a telephone, will be conducted on inspections of the Wisconsin Telephone company office 126 N. Superior street, Monday and Tuesday of next week.

As far as can be ascertained, the first telephone for commercial use in Wisconsin was installed in this city in 1877, not by an electrician but by a banker, Alfred Galpin.

A year later the city's telephone system was established. At that time there were about 25 telephones in the city and the exchange handled an average of 100 calls a day. The business has advanced until now there are nearly 8,700 telephones in Appleton and 58,000 calls made daily.

L. N. Benoit, a druggist whom Galpin interested in the new invention was the manager of the first exchange here and Miss Kate E. Holliman operator.

Established in 1878 in the Benoit and Little drug store at 775 College avenue, the exchange was acquired by the present company in 1882.

Wisconsin Social Security Problem

Families and Counties Should be Assistance Units in Welfare Work

Editor's Note: This is the second of a series of articles on the report and recommendations of the Citizens' Committee on public welfare, the proposed reorganization of state public welfare administration, based upon the committee's report, and the welfare problem in general.

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—The term "social security," since the coming of the New Deal and its multitudinous governmental changes, has become a part of practically every American's vocabulary.

In this discussion the definition of the term is that of the Citizens' Committee, and embraces the whole field of public dependency, dependency arising out of a variety of causes, unemployment, distressed agriculture, personal disabilities, the need for special care to certain children, delinquency, and the unwillingness of a relatively small group to conform to a normal social adjustment.

With this definition in mind, the governor's committee on public welfare set to work to investigate social security administration in Wisconsin, the myriad problems of public welfare, and finally reported the results of its researches and made a set of recommendations, with this preface:

"Any program looking toward social security of the people should provide services or money in sufficient amount to allow the family or the individual to live in reasonable decency, and to provide such things as will maintain the family or person in good health."

And because there had never before been a scientific attack on the state welfare problem, the committee was forced first to formulate a philosophy of action, and this philosophy, boiled down as much as possible, may be stated as the belief that "every person is expected to earn his own livelihood by his own efforts but that, if a person ceases to be self-dependent because of some handicap that he cannot overcome without help, it is the state's obligation to assist him to regain his self-dependency."

Seek Prevention

The committee also set down as incontrovertible the idea that the public welfare interest of the state must be directed toward prevention rather than cure, for, since the greatest resources of the state is its citizens, emphasis must be placed on the building up of human resources.

On this basis, the committee went ahead and made its social security recommendations, highlights of which follow:

That in any social security program the family be the unit of assistance.

This, the committee declares, has been proven best through experience. The family is the basic unit of modern society; assistance by the state as an organized society to any member of that family should be considered as assistance to the family itself.

That every program involving direct assistance be on the basis of need.

Many persons nowadays believe that pensions provided by government should be distributed by right to all citizens, because "they have always been taxpayers," or for some other reason. Many believe that old age pensions should be granted automatically to all citizens reaching a specified old age. But that, said the committee, "would result in a financial burden beyond the ability of the state to bear." Aids should be limited to those persons who are in need because of their inability to provide for themselves.

County Responsibility

That the county be the responsible unit for the administration of all social security aids and services.

The smallest local government, the towns, villages and cities, are frequently too small to cope adequately with the social security problem. Counties, however, are all able to afford the personnel and the administration necessary. Some specialized services, however, which are too costly for single counties to bear alone, may be dispensed by a group of counties, the committee recommends.

That the transient be the responsibility of the state government.

That three special aids, old age assistance, aid to dependent children, and aid to the needy blind, be continued and expanded, but that they be correlated with the general public welfare program of both county and state and be handled as a unit of that program.

The size of the expenditure for these special aids at the present time is shown in a current report of the pension department, which shows that old age assistance beneficiaries, for instance, have tripled in number during the last 18 months, numbering in August of this year, 36,594. Total in the three classes of special aids during August was 69,001, who received $1,070,776.

The committee recommended further:

'Sound Work Projects'

That public assistance to persons or to families with one or more employable persons be given through employment on economically sound work projects.

A state-wide survey, with interviews with responsible local officials, taught the researchers that public opinion approves public works rather than direct relief, although it means more expense. According to the committee, almost one-half of the direct relief clients in the state this year would be available for public work projects.

Said the report: "When lack of a job is the reason why a family needs public assistance, the most obvious way of meeting the problem is through providing employment for the head or employable member of the family. If aid is provided by any other method, there always exists the danger that the family morale will be reduced to the point where the family ceases to consider the importance of self-support and instead becomes completely dependent upon the state."

Further recommendations:

That the planning and execution of public works be the job of the local governments in which the project is to be laid, but that the assignment of workers to these programs as a means of granting them assistance be a part of the county social security program.

Adequate Personnel

That state aids to counties be inaugurated to insure the maintenance of adequate standards of service and personnel in social security administration.

That county social security agencies supply the medical and surgical treatment required by dependents who come to their attention, and that treatment should not be limited to mental disabilities and tuberculosis, but should include all disabilities of the indigent client. Here the committee repeated: "The greatest resources of the state of Wisconsin is its citizens."

That child welfare be made an integrated part of the social security program in the county and in the state.

These recommendations, and similar recommendations for modernizing, coordinating, and elimination of duplicating functions by existing public welfare agencies in the fields of mental hygiene, corrections, public health, education, county organization, finance, personnel and state organization, were placed before Governor LaFollette and the legislature. While few expect the program to be enacted immediately, the lawmakers will begin action on it before long if the governor has his way.

(The next article will discuss the mental hygiene problem.)

COAL REPLACES GOLD

Neurode, Germany — (U) — The ceremonial chain of gold or silver, symbolic of the mayor's office in most European cities, will give way here to one of hard coal as a testimonial to the mining industry in Silesia. The new decoration will be worn for the first time by the mayor of Neurode when this mining center celebrates its 600th anniversary this fall.

The periscope was introduced into the submarine about 1902.

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood — A lot of players would give their front teeth (so easily replaced) to get one, but the court records indicate that a Warner contract is something to escape, not seek.

Kay Francis is the latest to ask her freedom. Before her were Betty Davis, Ann Dvorak, and James Cagney, the latter—so far—alone successful. Other stars — William Powell, Ruth Chatterton, Edward G. Robinson, Dick Powell, Joan Blondell—have had quarrels with the studio that never reached the courts.

Most studios somehow keep their family squabbles inside the lots. They all have discontented stars—who will tell you confidentially that the guys up front haven't the slightest idea what they're doing—but the Warners have hogged the courtroom spotlight consistently of late years.

They Go Over It

While Kay Francis' suit over assignment of Claudette Colbert to

"Tovarich" awaits decision, you might expect strained relations between the two girls. You won't find any. Claudette is in the role of innocent bystander, and Kay knows that. Another good "feud" bites the dust.

Hollywood feuds, occasionally, are fascinating because they have far-reaching results. You can dismiss most of them as minor incidents, the ruffling of feathers already harassed by exigencies of movie production. The girls and boys get over it, eventually, or maybe they don't. And it still doesn't matter.

But one of the major feuds of recent times resulted in a new production company that is now on top. When Darryl Zanuck spat with Jack Warner during those troublous salary-cut times of 1933, he walked. He was at liberty only briefly before Joe Schenck telephoned, Came Twentieth Century—and shortly the merger with Fox.

Sham Battle

Another one—between Connie Bennett and Gloria Swanson—indirectly cost RKO a major flop. Connie, having married Gloria's ex-husband, acquired the story "Rockabye" on which Gloria had set her heart. "Rockabye" didn't rock along very well, it ended by costing a million dollars to make and remake, and did nothing for Bennett.

A publicity feud—the Winchell-Bernie thing—helped bring both to pictures. Their second now under way testifies to the success of the first, which played up the "feud." The new one is "Love and Hiss."

Warns Great Britain

Of War Famine Danger

London—(U)—Prediction that Britain would be starved into submission in the first month or two of a new war, unless vast quantities of emergency rations were stored throughout the country, has been made by J. R. Clynes who was food controller during the World war.

In his "memoirs," Clynes, hits hard at war-mongers. "By whose agency war occurs it is difficult to say unless it is by those concerns whose life depends on the continued production of private fortunes from armaments. . . .

"The armaments race was won in 1918. Death stood grinning at the finish point . . . we won the race."

KINDERGARTEN PUPILS HAVE DAILY REST PERIOD

Daily rest periods for kindergarten tots is not an entirely new idea in public schools as teachers' colleges have in recent years stressed the value of the program but probably few classes rest so comfortably or completely as those in the Lincoln and McKinley schools at New London. Inaugurated here by Miss Edna Kunz and Miss Helen Smith when they came to New London last year, the rest period was enhanced this year by the use of fancy sleeping pads which mothers made for the children. Last year old rugs were used to lie on. Kindergarteners go to school only half a day. The older group in the afternoon rests for 20 minutes and the smaller children rest 25 minutes in mid-morning. Ordinarily the children must lie on their backs and some really sleep but the older group at Lincoln school, shown above, willingly rolled over to have a picture taken. Left to right the faces are, first row, Geraldine Schoenrock, Walter Stewart, Colleen Haas; second row, Mildred Raschke, Niles McDermott, Gordon Stern, Betty Millard, Juanita Fletcher; third row, John Steinberg, Lola Schriver, Buddy Frasher, Dick Polley, Buddy Aigiers; fourth row, Bobby Spoehr, Catherine Thorn, Buddy Southard, Sally Bergman. 50 Students Tryout for Annual All-School Play

New London—Preliminary tryouts for the annual all-school play were held at Washington High school this week with an exceptionally large number of applicants. An invitation to become an actor was extended by H. H. Brockhaus, director of dramatics, and accepted by 50 students, 10 boys and about 40 girls, the latter showing very good talent Brockhaus said. Final tryouts will be held Monday. "This Genius Business" a 3-act comedy that is really funny, has been selected for the presentation this year offering a vehicle to a cast of eight characters. The show date is Nov. 12. If possible, only students who are not members of the National Thespian group will be selected for the play to give them an opportunity to earn credits toward membership in the local chapter. The comedy concerns an ambitious mother whose musical talents were sidetracked for marriage and who seeks to make musical geniuses of her two children who are far from talented. The father George Blodgett, is a struggling hardware merchant who loves to dabble with flowers and the disgust of Mrs. Blodgett causes the family to drift apart. The climax occurs when Mrs. Blodgett attempts a recital for the children, Aida, 20, and Beaumont, 18, with the aid of a successful young actress friend. The recital is a failure while the talented voice of the young maid, Katie, 18, is discovered and she is started on a successful career. Mrs. Blodgett realizes her wasted efforts and the family becomes joyfully reconciled when Mr. Blodgett sells a specially developed dahlia for $5,000. Other characters entering into the production are Albertina, 21, a young matron, and Dr. Oliver, a young physician who supplies the love interest. Besides the cast there will be opportunities for stage technicians.

Busy Schedule Is Mapped for Season At Manawa School

Mystery Play Again to be Presented This Fall By Students

Manawa—Activities at Manawa High school are getting into full swing now that the session is almost a month old. Students will again present a mystery play some time during the autumn, probably the latter part of October. The play chosen is Wilbur Braun's "Murdered Alive," a sparkling comedy with the thrills of mystery, which may surpass in popularity the production, "Mystery at Midnight," given a year ago. The cast of 12 consists of several student actors who have had experience in previous high school productions.

These include Lois Bauer as Mrs. Libby Ryder; Ruth O'Donnell, who takes the part of Tilly Meek; Helen Fenske as Arden Ryder; Eunice Fenske as Iris Alda; Clarence Draeger, who takes the part of Acton Chance; and Lyell Ferg as Warner Melton. Among the new players the following seniors have won parts in the production. They are Arthur Sturm as the Mysterious Stranger, Florice Plotter as Arline Ivans, Malinda Kitzmann as Luverne Speed, and Lorna Draeger as Mrs. Frank Backus. Two freshmen, Floyd Esche as Frank Backus and Bruce Brown as Otis Marvin, were chosen to complete the cast.

H. P. Barrington, Smith-Hughes agriculture teacher, took several judging teams to the state contests conducted under the auspices of the college of agriculture at the University of Wisconsin, Madison. The following teams were entered in the state events, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday:

Crops—Eldor Klotzbuecher, Kenneth Gobbs, and Donald Gartzke; Potatoes—Keith Gehrke, Myles Stevens, and Marilyn Stiebs; Dairy cattle—Mayford Kriesse, Vilas Schwanke, and George Brooks; Fat stock—Wilmer Gehrke, Harold Jawort, and Rufus Froeming; Poultry—Alfred Hass, Jim Schider, and Russell Handrich; Agricultural facts—Gene Eder, Future Farmer Delegate—Clarence Draeger.

The interclass teams of diamond ball have been busily engaged playing each other for the class championship. In the girls' division, the freshmen team came out on top with the sophomores, juniors, and seniors all tying for the runner-up position. In the boys' division the freshmen won over the juniors 2 to 1 and the seniors beat the sophomores, 15 to 5. The freshmen and seniors will not battle for first place. Competition in the race for the school spirit cup, a trophy awarded each year to the class making the best record in scholastics and extracurricular activities, is keener than ever this term. Classes are now selling student activity tickets for spirit cup points. The tickets enable all students to attend every activity, athletic contest or other event at a very nominal sum.

BOOK REVIEW

Prokosch's 'The Seven Who Fleed' May be Puzzling to Its Readers

By Jean Wiley Thickens

BY FREDERICK PROKOSCH Since the Harper prize novel was instituted in 1922, the judges have chosen a dud at least three times. Either the selection failed because it appealed to only a small group of intelligent (because of its weird or abnormal theme) or simply because it was an unmitigated bore. This year's selection, "The Seven Who Fleed" by Frederick Prokosch, is far from being a bore but the reader will inevitably find himself a bit puzzled by the author's object in writing the novel.

Frederick Prokosch was born in Madison, Wis. 28 years ago of Austrian parentage. He was educated in Germany, Austria and English universities and later travelled extensively. His first novel, "The Asiatics," was hailed as a brilliant success both in this country and abroad. The author is also a critic and scholar and was awarded a Guggenheim fellowship for creative writing in 1937. For so young a man it is unusual to find such depth of feeling and introduction in his writing. However his most outstanding literary characteristic is his fatalism; an attitude which was perhaps induced by his years of residence in the Orient.

"The Seven Who Fleed" tells the story of seven men and a woman who, for various political reasons are suddenly obliged to flee from their native land. Conditions along the Chinese-Siberian border are becoming increasingly dangerous to foreigners. These eight fugitives are associated for a while as fellow-members of a camel caravan which is endeavoring to reach the coast. In their flight they are menaced by burning heat, bitter cold, starvation, plague, and roving groups of bandits. In these adverse circumstances their best and their worst characteristics appear. The group consists of a world-weary Frenchman and his beautiful Spanish wife, two youthful German scientists, a wealthy Chinese gentleman, an English explorer, a Belgian murderer, a Russian refugee. These eight diverse individuals appear to be motivated by a single impulse: a flight of the spirit from intolerable mental sufferings. And as the sufferings of their bodies grow more bitter, the disturbances of the mind appear to lose intensity.

These eight, emotionally unbalanced persons meet death in various forms. The English explorer freezes to death on the lofty Tibetan mountains, one of the young German scientists dies of tuberculosis, the Belgian is murdered, the Frenchman is poisoned, his beautiful wife is captured by Chinese river pirates and sold to a brothel in Shanghai, while still another member of the party dies of tropical fever. Each one seems death approaching and does nothing to avoid his fate; rather he welcomes it as a release from spiritual unrest.

The book is not morbid although the vivid descriptions of starvation, disease, suspicion, fear and lust do not make the most cheerful subjects. There is no connected plot as each man is taken along his individual path to the death which awaits him, and the characters are held together by only the most fragile of threads. However, if the theme were discounted and the lack of plot accepted, the book would still be worth reading if only for its exquisite word pictures of the scenery these hapless victims of fate encounter in their wanderings through desert, mountain, valley and forest.

If I were to presume criticism of so promising a young author I would suggest that Mr. Prokosch would be more successful as a poet than as a prose writer. A large percentage of the reading public will be pretty baffled when they have finished "The Seven Who Fleed" but a small number will praise it extravagantly. Everyone does not like caviar. Lao-Tse, the ancient Chinese philosopher, says that "the tranquility of the heart is the very crown of creation." Perhaps Mr. Prokosch means to imply that only in death can that tranquility be attained.

Knowledge of Conventions Is Vital for Sound Bidding

I have played with a great many men, supposedly well into the age of discretion, who should join the nearest Boy Scout Troop. This is casting no aspersions on the south. Their purpose and practices are admirable. It would be splendid if the players to whom I have referred were to take the Scout motto, "Be prepared," for their own. Unfortunately, however, they have chosen one of the other Scout tenets, namely, "a good deed each day." It is one thing to assist an elderly person across the street, and quite another to rescue a bridge opponent from impending disaster.

The bidding:
East South West North
1 heart Pass 1 no trump Pass
2 hearts Double Pass 3 spades Pass
3 no trump Double Pass
Pass Pass

North was the player in this case who should be himself to the nearest Scout camp. After the smoke of battle had cleared, South, with rage in his heart, had to sit and watch 500 points chalked up to the credit of the enemy. A moment's reflection served only to add fuel to the fire, because it immediately became apparent that East-West would have gone down 500 at their two heart contract. The following snappy dialog ensued:

South (to North): "Apparently 500 at their two heart contract, you don't recognize a penalty double when you hear one."

North (to South): "Well, I wasn't sure and I thought the safest thing was to bid my suit."

South: "You realized that I had failed to double at my first opportunity?"

North: "Yes, but—"

South: "But, my eye! What you really said when you took me out was that I didn't know what I was doing. If I'd wanted to hear about your spades I would have doubled one heart. I don't know why it is, but somehow or other I always find myself knee-deep in partners."

South may have expressed himself rather forcibly, but there was reason for his anger. He had deliberately set a trap for the opponents' hearts, and the quarry had fallen into the net only to be released promptly by the trapper's supposed holocaust. Two hearts doubled undoubtedly would have gone down 500 points, on reasonably good defense. Not only had North confused a penalty double with the take-out variety, but, evidently feeling that his hand warranted better than a forced response, he had carried the bidding to dangerous heights by jumping in spades.

It is impossible to play partnership bridge without a sound foundation in the conventions.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Question: My partner opened the bidding with one heart. Opponents did not bid. I responded with one spade. What is my partner's correct second bid with:

7♥AKJ564♦AKJ73♣A7
Answer: He should make a forcing rebid of three diamonds.

My Neighbor Says—

For successful storage of crops such as beets, carrots, turnips and cabbage, they should be harvested late in October. This gives them a chance to be fully mature and good and hard for winter storage.

Instead of always folding tablecloths and sheets lengthwise, it is an excellent plan to sometimes fold them the other way as they are less likely to wear out if the folds are occasionally changed.

Uncle Ray's Corner

A CHAT WITH UNCLE RAY
What are clouds made of? asks Ruth Anne Suelzer.

Clouds are made of moist air. Millions and millions of tiny bits of moisture (each smaller than a rain drop) rise in the air and gather together. Then we see a cloud floating in the sky.

Fogs and clouds are nearly the same thing, but fogs are close to the ground while clouds are some distance above. Many clouds are less than a mile high. Others are several miles from the earth's surface.

Water is always rising in the air in one place or another. In fact, it rises in many, many places at the same time. Sunshine turns the water of oceans, lakes, ponds and so on into vapor, and the vapor rises.

Fogs are composed of moist air which is heavy enough to settle near the ground. In most cases, however, air with vapor in it is lighter than air with none of it, or so little that it does not amount to much.

It is a good thing that vapor-laden air is usually lighter than other air. If that were not the case, think of the difference it would make to us! The clouds would settle around us like fog, and a great number of our days would be spoiled.

The great city of London is much troubled by fogs during certain months of the year, but if all the vapor-filled air above London settled down, London would be far worse off than it is.

Of course clouds do settle down, sooner or later, in the form of rain, but when that happens, we get the water without having to walk through fog or mist.

There are three main kinds of fogs—feathery ones, those with rounded tops, and those which appear in sheets or layers. White, filmy, feathery clouds have the Latin name "cirrus," meaning "curl." They sail along very high above the ground.

Clouds with rounded tops are known as "cumulus" clouds, the name meaning, in Latin, "a heap." Often they seem piled up like mountains. "Stratus" clouds are the ones spread out in sheets or layers.

Besides these three main kinds, there are others which we could call "combined clouds," as "cirro-stratus" or "strato-cumulus."

In certain parts of the world, clouds of strange shapes are common. In the polar regions, "whale-back" clouds are often seen. "Tablecloth" clouds form over a mountain near Cape Town, Africa.

Timing Is Important in Training of Children

BY ANGELO PATRI

There is always, in every phase of life, the just right time. If one does the work that the time admits, even demands, there is every hope of a perfect return. Seed sown in season, plants fed and watered on time, the harvest is more certain if gathered on time.

There is a nice sense of discrimination involved in all this. Just when does the right time come? And how does one know it is the right time? One never knows anything certainly, but experience does tell something, and if it is coupled with the wish to learn and to work hard at the task in hand, one can make a working guess which will come close to rightness.

Children grow steadily forward, but they do not maintain an even speed in their growth and they do not grow all of a piece. They grow fast and then they grow slowly, and at all the rates in between. They grow their bodies in bits, here and there, and they grow their minds in patches. Their growth seems to be most irregular and quite uncertain, but in reality it is according to a perfect plan hidden from us, waiting for our discovery, like all other plans of the Creator. One can study and watch and work and hope and be fairly certain of the result provided always one works on time.

Parents and teachers are hurried, busy people occupied with the grave concerns of their duties. The children, growing under their eyes, escape notice until "all of a sudden," something happens that brings them to the center of attention. They have done something unusual, perhaps startling, and their astonished elders call upon high heaven to behold the vagaries of this child. There are no vagaries. Just normal growth that goes on without our sight or understanding. The time for our attention passed without our seeing or knowing the need.

This is why adolescent children give their people so much trouble at times. When, in their early growth, they developed some racial phase of growth, something that should have been of passing concern only, nobody took NOTICE. The phase lingered, became a habit, marked enough to annoy somebody or frighten somebody. Then what is to be done? The season has passed for changing the growth easily. Now it means a pruning and a regrowth, a trying experience for all concerned.

When a little child shows temper, find the cause and make losing the temper unnecessary. When he patters, find the cause and remove it, then and there, not when he reaches the age of marriage. When a child betrays selfishness, begin training him that day, not after

See Doctor If You Have Foot Trouble

BY ELSIE PIERCE

Mrs. Margaret T. K. writes: I wish you could tell me what to do with my foot. I have a swollen joint on my right foot which gives me great pain so that I am always glad to get my shoe off. It may be a bunion but I have never had any and don't know how they feel.

It is naturally unwise to make a diagnosis, sight unseen, nor would I attempt to do so in this case because it definitely belongs to the physicians province. Mrs. M. T. K. should see her physician immediately. He may recommend her to a chiropodist for treatment, but it is a mistake to go on with severe pain and swelling because this is usually an S. O. S. that there's trouble afoot.

Heavy Bust and Waistline

Mrs. H. S. writes: Can you give me an exercise for reducing flesh at the waistline? Am 60, have to work for my living, am short-waisted, bust very heavy and some flesh is gathering at my waistline. It is necessary for me to keep as neat an appearance as possible. I have been a good walker, but do not have the endurance now for a long walk.

Obviously strenuous exercise is out. Try trunk bending and try particularly to bend the trunk back as well as forward. Trunk circling is excellent. But do not strain yourself. Proper corseting is of utmost importance in your case, and a well-made, properly fitted garment of good lines for your figure is well worth the investment. Such garments are not to be had for a mere song, but they are worth their weight in gold—incidentally they are very light in weight. Also select clothes with rather long waistlines, belts placed well below your natural waistline or no belt at all in order to effect an optical illusion and make your figure seem longer.

I would like to send you my bulletin called "Lovely Lines" if you would send for it and enclose a self-addressed-stamped (3-cent) envelope.

My complete new booklets "Reduce by Diet" (Booklet 201) and "Reduce by Exercise" (Booklet 202) are yours for ten cents each. They cover the subjects thoroughly. Send for them giving your name and full address to the Bell Library, care this newspaper, 247 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y. (Copyright, 1937)

For a quick dessert cut cupcakes through the middle, cover the lower half with sliced peaches, replace the tops and cover with whipped cream. A little coconut may be mixed with the whipped cream.

Fill halves of hard-cooked eggs with a tart sauce or relish. Then outline salad, chop or fish platters with the cases. The leftover egg yolks may be used in creamed dishes.

years of self-indulgence. When a child is bad-mannered, untidy, careless, of all responsibility begin training him the day he first cheeks his mother, or leaves his things for her to pick up, or forgets to do the chore assigned him, not when he is an adolescent rebelling against all restriction.

Train children in season. Don't expect the three-year-old to assume full responsibility for himself, but don't wait until he is twenty before letting him feel the responsibility he bears toward his family, his friends and his community. Teach children what they ought to learn, at the right time. They will learn easily then what they must acquire painfully later on.

Mr. Patel will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers of the rare and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Men Shouldn't Ask Too Much of Women They Wed

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dead Miss Dix—I am 26 and almost convinced I am a permanent bachelor because I cannot find any girl who comes up to my ideal. Physical attraction is not enough to hold me to any girl. She must be beautiful in mind as well as body and have spiritual elevation. She must be a musician, interested in art, like to swim, skate, dance and ride. She must keep up at my side so that she will be a companion and never let my affections lag. Is there such a girl as I have described?

MARC.

Answer:
The woods are full of them. The modern girl is extremely versatile and there are plenty of them who are both good-looking and intelligent, who are musicians and interested in art and who also are outdoor girls who like all sorts of athletic sports. It doesn't seem to me that there would be much difficulty in finding a young woman who would be capable of keeping step with you, no matter how high you climbed, unless you are very pernickily and expect to get with one hand and play concertos with the other at the same time.

I get many letters like yours from young men who state the qualifications that they require in their wives. They demand beauty and sylph-like forms; intelligence and talent; domesticity, thrift and industry; amiability and humility of character; good dancers and athletes; and Heaven knows what other varied and assorted charms and virtues.

And I often wonder what these arrogant young males who ask so much of their wives expect to give in return, or why they think that any girl who was such a paragon of perfection would want to marry one of them. Are they handsome and intelligent and successful? Are they spellbinders of whom a wife would never weary? Are they home-loving and fitted to be fire-side companions? Can they offer the beauty a luxurious home that would make a fitting shrine for her pulchritude and the fine feathers that enhance the good looks of a fine bird? Could they keep up with and be a companion to a cultured woman who read and thought and belonged to all sorts of improvement clubs? Could they keep a woman who was a vamp herself always fascinated and thrilled?

A fair trade goes fifty-fifty. If a man is a square-shooter he should be able to give as much as he asks in marriage and not to expect to get a perfect wife unless he was prepared to make an adequate return as a husband.

As a matter of fact, there is, of course, no such animal as the perfect woman. No man would want her or could stand her if there was. She would be too great a contrast to his faults and foibles. She would fill him with a sense of his own unworthiness and that would be something not to be borne.

It is ironic and amusing that while men theoretically demand perfection in women, what they really want is imperfection. Men don't love women for their virtues, but for their weaknesses. Most of the superior women are old maids. No man wants to look up to his wife. He enjoys gazing down upon her. Husbands' stories are always concerned with the mistakes of their wives have made. They never mention the good thing that Friend Wife has pulled off.

So son, you needn't fear that you are doomed to be a bachelor because you can't find the perfect woman for whom you are looking. Some day you will meet some little girl who perhaps doesn't possess a single one of the thirty-nine points of perfection in a wife that you demand.

She may not have a good feature to bless herself with, nor have even seen the outside of a college. She may not know Tanhauser from Anheuser. She may be peppery and hard to get along with. But, somehow, she will be just what you want and you will never even notice that she doesn't come up to specifications.

I once knew a man who was a perfect fanatic on the subject of beauty in women. Every woman he met had to pass a Miss America test before he would look at her. No woman that he met was not one short of the Venus de Milo could have caught him. And yet he married two of the very homeliest women I ever knew.

NEW CROSS STITCH IN FLORAL MOTIF

CROSS STITCH LINENS

Do you know that cross stitch is the newest note in table decoration? You can add it to your linens with this handsome design. Use a panel of needlework as a centerpiece of cloth or scarf—or stitch a smaller one across the ends of a runner. The eight-to-the-inch crosses are set off by outline stitch in a dark color or black. You'll love the effect. Pattern 1561 contains a transfer pattern of four motifs 6 x 10 1/2 inches, six motifs 2 x 3 1/2 inches; material requirements; illustrations of all stitches used; color suggestions.

car because he is saving money so we can get married.

Answer: If you and he consider yourselves engaged, then I can really see no objection to letting him make use of your car. The only thing that should be taken into consideration is that if people do not know you are engaged and you very conspicuously go and fetch him often, they might say that you are running after him, and keep on saying it even after your engagement is announced. Probably this is what your father objects to. The answer then is that it would be much better to announce your engagement. It would then be quite all right for your fiancé to stay at your house and for him to be seen driving your car.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it discourteous for me to go out for an evening with a boy and not include a girl in whose house I am visiting? I met this boy in college last year. He lives here and has asked me to go to a party in the house of some of his best friends. He never knew my friend before my visit. When I asked him about arranging for her he said he could hardly ask his hostess if he could bring any more people.

Answer: To begin with, you should not go on his invitation alone to the house of a hostess who has sent no invitation to you. Moreover, I think that going to the house of a stranger and leaving the girl with whom you are staying is not very admirable behavior. If you were staying with a girl and a very intimate friend asked you to go to a party at her house—to dinner let us say; therefore she couldn't possibly invite an extra girl—this would be different. Accepting the invitation you describe would really be verging on the cheap, and furthermore I should think that your present hostess would not be inclined to ask you to stay with her again.

Old Gardener Says:

By E. I. Farrington

Most garden makers who grow foxgloves and have tried to winter them in the open have had difficulty. Ice and snow collecting in the crown, and the alternate freezing and thawing cause the crown to rot and the plants to die. On the other hand, too much protective covering over the crown smothers the plants. The usual advice is to winter the plants in a cold-frame, but many gardeners do not have this facility available. A berry basket placed over a small plant gives adequate protection in the open. A stone on top of the basket will prevent its being carried away by the wind. A peach basket will serve the same purpose for larger clumps. The large baskets, however, are rather unsightly in the garden and many persons have found that large plants will winter satisfactorily if the foliage is gathered and tied loosely over the crown, much as one does in blanching cauliflower. If the crown appears bleached in the spring, it will soon regain its green color.

Teacher's Memory Is Better Than Eyesight

Omaha, Neb., (P)—Belle Ryan, assistant superintendent of schools, confounded clerks in the auto license testing bureau when she was asked to read an optical chart 25 feet away.

She did so rapidly and correctly, as the clerk learned when he walked forward and squinted at the letters.

"That's impossible," the clerk declared. "Human vision can't be that good. You're not supposed to be able to read the entire chart."

Miss Ryan walked out with an air of triumph, not revealing she could have recited the letters in total darkness with equal facility. Because of long experience in school work, she knew the chart by heart.

PERHAPS THE FAULT IS NOT FATHER'S AFTER ALL!

Dear Mrs. Post: I feel that my father is not making any honest effort to try to see anything from a younger person's point of view. Perhaps it is impossible for some older people to be young again even in their memories. Anyway, the situation is this: I have a car, my boy friends (we're engaged, but no one knows it) have none and he lives twenty-five miles away. There is no bus service between the two towns. My father objects to my driving over to get him and he objects even more seriously to my letting him drive home in the car. And yet he won't let me ask him to stay overnight at our house. Are any of these things so out of the way in today's picture? I don't want him to buy a

is FIRE'S worst enemy

An ounce of prevention is worth TONS of cure so far as fire is concerned. A moment's thought when tossing away a match or getting rid of a cigarette may make all the difference in the world. Common sense makes fire work FOR you in scores of ways. It can also keep fire from working AGAINST you.

That is why Fire Prevention Week has been set aside each year — to remind you that your own stock of common sense can save you from paying a proportionate cost of the annual half billion dollar loss from fire. Every week should be a fire prevention week so far as you are concerned.

Despite all the common sense you may exercise in preventing fire, someone else's carelessness, or some unforeseen and unpredictable circumstance may still cause you to undergo loss from fire. That's why it's also common sense to protect your property with adequate fire insurance. The leading fire insurance representatives, listed below, are ready to serve you. Let one of them check your needs and make recommendations — it obligates you not at all.

SYNOPSIS: When Neill, a young federal agent, gets to Baltimore for a week's vacation with his girl, he finds Janet won't break a dinner date with Prescott Fanning, Peevy. Neill says Fanning is too old for Janet, too slick and spends too much money. They quarrel and part, Neill setting out to check up on Fanning. He finds him at his hotel and strikes up a bar friendship. Fanning is genial, but discloses nothing about himself. Finally he invites Neill to his party. They go upstairs to Fanning's suite. Have a final shot and set forth.

In the taxi, Neill loses consciousness.

Chapter Five Janet's Gone!

WHEN Neill came to, he found himself lying fully dressed on his bed at the Hotel Stafford. For the moment his mind was blank; he was only aware that he felt terrible. The sun was streaming in and he glanced at his watch. Nearly 12 o'clock. He sat up, pressing his head between his hands, then staggered into the bath for water.

Suddenly recollection returned—

'Singing Marine' Booked at Elite

Dick Powell Heads Cast Including Hugh Herbert And Allen Jenkins

Just what the title indicates is the story of "The Singing Marine," which, with Dick Powell as its star, will open a 3 day engagement at the Elite Theatre on next Wednesday.

Dick is a Marine — a modest buck private at the San Diego base — and he can sing. So his comrades get up a purse to send him to New York to have a try at "Major Bowes" amateur hour.

At the same time, on her own Dick's sweetheart essays to enter her voice into the competition. This is Doris Weston, a lovely and talented newcomer to movies.

She doesn't get by. The Major's famous gong stops her. But Dick becomes a tremendous success.

That was just too bad! It goes to Dick's head. Spoiled by the adulation of innumerable women, and the fawning of chiselers who surround him, the young Marine forgets his comrades out on the Pacific Coast.

But after all he's only on a leave of absence from the Marines, and when, at the end of his furlough he's shipped with the rest of his company to China, he has chance to redeem himself with a splendid bit of heroism, which restores him to everyone's good graces.

A splendid cast surrounds Dick Powell in the gay song and dance fest, including Hugh Herbert, Allen Jenkins, Doc Rockwell from vaudeville, Jane Wyman and Veda Ann Borg.

'Go Getter' to Show at Elite Monday, Tuesday

Among the never-forgotten characters of present-day magazine fiction is that picturesque old chap called Cappy Ricks, who owns steamships and operates them out of San Francisco to all parts of the world. He was created by the popular novelist, Peter B. Kyne, and has been kept alive now for a good many years.

In more intimate fashion old Cappy now comes before the public again—almost in real life. He's in a movie—the Cosmopolitan production entitled "The Go Getter," which will be shown at the Elite Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, Egan Days.

Cappy is portrayed by Charles Winninger, whom you'll remember as Cap'n Andy in the stage play, then the movie, called "Show Boat."

Yet Winninger isn't the go getter, George Brent, handsome 6-foot Irish actor has that role and is co-starring with the slender, picturesque, wealth-lily beauty, Anita Louise.

The opening scene of "The Go Getter" is one of the most dramatic ever shown on the screen. This is the fatal plunge of the U. S. dirigible Macon into the Pacific Ocean a few years ago. Brent is one of the crew. He survives, but loses a leg and must leave the Navy and find a civilian job somewhere. That's how he meets Cappy and Cappy's daughter.

'Reckless Ranger' on Now at Elite Theater

Blazing guns roar in revenge for a brother's brutal murder when Bob Allen, in the role of a rough-riding Texas ranger, gallops across the screen in Columbia's newest action thriller, "Reckless Ranger," showing at the Elite Theatre today and Sunday.

There's a sprinkling of romance, too, as Bob falls in love with Mildred Newton (Louise Small), sister of his dead brother's partner, Chet Newton (Jack Perrin). Especially worthy of mention is the excellent riding by 6-year-old Buddy Cox, a newcomer to the screen, who has the role of Jimmy, Allen's young nephew.

Bill Barlowe (Harry Wood) is the ruthless villain, who, because of his hatred for sheepmen, sends his henchmen to kill Jim Allen, their leader. Bob Allen learns of the murder and immediately starts for the scene of the trouble. En route, he finds his twin brother's body, and swears revenge.

From that point on the film races through gun battles, thrilling chases and cattle stampedes to its breath-taking climax. Allen, of course, is tops as the vengeful Texas Ranger with a grand performance contributed by Louise Small as the love interest.

Home Economics Pupils Can Peaches, Tomatoes

Future homemakers at McKinley Junior High school have learned the secrets of canning peaches and tomatoes this year from Miss Evelyn Albert, home economics instructor. Enough of each have been canned and stored at the school to be used for lunches during the cold weather when many pupils will be unable to get to their homes. The students also made jelly under Miss Albert's supervision.

Pupils of the ninth grade classes are now studying marketing in class. They will be taught how to plan meals, preparation of meals and how to serve this semester. About 20 children are taking the course.

Song Birds Making Annual Migrations to Southland

BY CLARA HUSSONG

To the outdoor lover October is the month in which wild geese, ducks, swans and other water birds make their annual journeys to the south and the month would be incomplete if we did not see at least one flock of the "honkers" flying overhead in their familiar V-shape formation or if we did not catch a glimpse of ducks or swans resting on the water at sunrise or sunset.

Pictureque as the flights of these larger birds are we must not forget that these are not the only birds who are leaving us at this time. During late September and early October large numbers of song birds are passing through also. Because they are smaller and more quiet their flight is less noticeable and it is only the hard-working bird student who knows that if he visits parks, woods, roadsides and fields he will find the shrubbery and trees alive with feathered life busily feasting on fruits, seeds and insects.

Many Coming Back Some of our song birds left us many weeks ago. Among the earliest to depart are the yellow warblers, the bobolinks, some of the flycatchers, the rough-winged swallows and the water thrush. During September the purple martin, the barn and cave swallows left us and usually by the end of the month the bank and tree swallows have disappeared also.

If you haven't been out to watch the southward passing of the song birds, don't despair, there are still a great many interesting species arriving and departing each day. Visit the same park, thicket or grove where you found them during the spring migration. You will see them again, less noisy than in spring and in some cases not so gaily colored but as adept at concealing themselves as ever.

Most of our song birds rest and feed during the day and fly at night. Some spend, because of the food and protection they afford the birds, have become favorite stopping places and are used by large numbers of birds year after year. These have come to be known as migration stations. These stations need not be in the wilderness, sometimes they are city parks.

Discovered New Tree

I visited a park this morning and again this afternoon in order to see what birds were about. The usual birds who make their summer home in or near the park were the first to greet me: robins, flickers, woodpeckers, gold-finches, starlings and chipping sparrows. I watched two young cedar waxwings devouring the capsule-like fruit of a Russian olive or oleaster tree. The birds really introduced me to the tree. I had always taken it for a willow because of its long gray-green leaves.

From around me I could hear the half-strains of many bird songs, a soft warble of a bluebird, the sharp "chip" of the hairy woodpecker, the brown creeper, the thin shrill notes of the kinglets and the hissing trills of the juncos. The creepers, kinglets and juncos must have arrived during the last few weeks. There were a great many of them in the park. The sweetest note that met my ears was the clear, sad whistle of the white-throated sparrow, only half of its usual song but I recognized it at once. I found many flocks of these birds busily scratching among the dry leaves under the shrubbery.

Warblers are Numerous If the white-throats are here, I reasoned, the olive-backed thrushes must be here too because in the years I have been keeping bird records the two birds arrived and departed simultaneously. A few minutes later I saw one flying low before me. I tried to follow it and came upon several more. If you have ever tried to "stalk" a thrush you know their stealthy flight. They fly in a low wavering line, from one clump of shrubbery to another. One wood thrush and one hermit thrush happened to be in the park at the same time. The wood thrush must have been a tag-end traveler but the hermits will be seen for several weeks more.

Several kinds of warblers darted in and out of trees and shrubs but only one sat still long enough for me to identify him. This was the Tennessee warbler, a small, gray-backed, white breasted bird. The bird's tell-tale mark is the white line running from the lower crown, over the eye and almost meeting its mate above the bill.

Each spring I complain about the hard work in trying to identify autumn when the trees and shrubs are still full of leaves. I tried to come upon them unawares but every crunch of gravel or crackle of dry leaves frightened them away. I tried flattening myself against a tree trunk and remaining very still. Not a warbler showed himself but three white-throated sparrows passed less than three feet away.

'Thin Ice' Current Attraction at Rio

Sonja Henie, Tyrone Power Star in New Production

Few pictures produced during the past few years have been fraught with more original qualities and dazzling loveliness than "Thin Ice," starring Sonja Henie and Tyrone Power, now playing at the Rio Theatre.

Most films are easy to put into production. Of course, a certain period lies in the preparation of the story and budget, another in actual production, and still another in editing. But with a Sonja Henie picture, all precedence goes to the wind. Her specialized talent in skating requires more care and detail in the planning and production of her pictures.

As an example, there are three spectacular skating numbers in "Thin Ice." This meant the creation of a large rink suitable for the movements of eighty professional skaters. A refrigerating plant had to be constructed, which utilized miles of pipes, laid around the icy surface. The erection of an ice plant and corps of engineers was necessary to accomplish it.

It was discovered the ice photographed too murky. To correct this the technicians spread skimmed milk over the surface, which produced a clear, white ice that photographed not only excellently, but economically as well. The white surface reflected the tremendous battery of lights focused upon it, increasing the light values, which as the natural ice had tended to absorb this concentration.

The rink completed, a magnificent encircling set was created; one of the most impressive combination restaurant and pavilion sets yet seen in pictures. Treated in an ultra-modern style, its materials consisted of molded glass pillars, diffusing neon lights and trimmed with chrome metal. Over the set, and completely surrounding the rink, was a balcony for diners.

A further unusual quality in the picture's production was a location trip to Mount Rainier, Washington, for skiing scenes. During the company's three-week stay there, all nature let loose with its wildest display of temperament. Snow, ice and hail at times discouraged them, but they withstood it to film majestic backgrounds at Mount Rainier, bathed in clouds, and long ski runs by Miss Henie.

The supporting cast features Arthur Treacher, Raymond Walburn, and Joan Davis, and includes Sig Ruman, Alan Hale, Leah Ray, Melville Cooper, Maurice Cass, and George Givot.

Roosevelt Pupils Told Of Boy Scout Jamboree

Impressions of the national Boy Scout Jamboree held at Washington, D. C., this summer were given by E. E. Thomas, valley scout executive, and three Appleton scouts at a general assembly gathering at Roosevelt Junior High school Friday morning. The boys were Lane Dickinson, Bud Thomas and John Scabrone.

'MAKE A WISH' COMING TO APPLETON

Presenting Bobby Breen for the first time as a modern, red blooded American boy, his new picture, "Make a Wish," is a romantic, musical, comedy-drama with universal appeal. In addition to a strong romantic plot, with the leads played by Basil Rathbone and Marion Claire, the story tells an intriguing tale of a great friendship begun in a summer camp — the attachment of a sophisticated composer for a manly boy. The famous composer, Oscar Straus, wrote the music for three song hits, "Make a Wish," "Music in My Heart," "Birchlake Forever," with words by Louis Alter and Paul F. Webster, who wrote the fourth hit song, "Campfire Dreams." This Sol Lesser production for RKO Radio release was directed by Kurt Neumann, with the original screen story by Gertrude Berg.

Pegler Says Leftists Are Ducking Klan Issue

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—Well, anyway, the Hugo Black thing isn't so scandalous and outrageous for the comedy relief in an otherwise angry episode, we owe thanks to our red and pink pals over on the left who have been giving a hilarious imitation of the wrestler who let out a horrible yowl of pain, rolled over on his back and discovered that, in the confusion of the struggle, he had been twisting his own foot.

Would anyone ever have expected to see the day when the butchers' paper literati would find themselves stuck with a kluxer and did anyone ever imagine that in a desperate attempt to save face our bolos would be driven to the humiliating necessity of apologizing for their guy's lack of intelligence and character and minimizing the atrocity of the Klan?

To obtain the best effect it is necessary to go back to the days when the Klan was riding high and read up on the resounding fury of the reds and pinks. In those days there was no discount or mitigation and anyone who joined out with the night-riders whether for active, personal service as a terrorist or merely as a politician seeking votes, was flattered by the name of heel. In fact, the politician who wasn't really klannish at heart but joined merely to win a cheap political job, was considered to be distinctly lower than the ignoramus who actually thought the Pope was fixing to storm the White House and earnestly subscribed to the mother goose prattle about kludds, kladdas and kligrapps.

Support of Kluxers The politician, if he had character, would have felt himself contaminated by the approval of such people and honored by their hatred, and you can read writings to this effect in all the publications which are now attempting to argue that when Hugo changed from a white nightshirt to a black one he also became another person. At that time they wouldn't grant you that any adult man who joined the Klan could live long enough to get over it, and there are those of us who heard them the first time and agreed entirely.

Then, all of a sudden, and thanks to the deception practiced on the senate as well as on themselves, they discovered that they had been cheering shrilly for a man with a past. I will say one thing for them. They do not often speak so dishonestly. Usually they are fairly consistent, and they have done themselves injustice in this case, for they would have been at least honest if they had admitted a mistake instead of resorting to arguments which sound like the state papers of little Joe Goebbels.

Direct Counter-Attack At Expose Exploiters The counter-attack has been directed mainly at the personalities and motives of those who made and

Comedy, 'Topper,' Will Open Sunday

Constance Bennett and Cary Grant Star in Gay Picture

The Hal Roach-M-G-M super-feature comedy, "Topper," opening Sunday at the Appleton Theatre, streamlines spectacularly into the ultra-modern and futuristic realms of entertainment.

Luxury and richness provide the background for the fast-moving action and hilarious humor of the new picture, based on Thorne Smith's delightful novel of whimsy, wit and satire.

Co-starring Constance Bennett and Cary Grant, with Roland Young as "Topper," and a supporting cast which includes Billie Burke, Alan Mowbray and Eugene Pallette in featured roles, provided Director Norman MacLeod with outstanding players to enact the astounding and ribald adventures and the merry mirthquake of episodes. The luxurious wardrobes shown promise new creations for next season's styles. Samuel Murray Lange, noted stylist, returned to the Roach studios direct from Paris to design and execute the gorgeous gowns for Miss Bennett and Miss Burke, who are already world renowned as lovely ladies of foremost fashions. Advanced technical fashions introduced are a futuristic automobile roadster and an ultra-modern streamlined railroad coach.

The spectacular sets of "Topper" include scenes in a fashionable resort hotel, a de luxe penthouse, a colonial home, a Wall street bank and a battery of night clubs.

exploited the expose, with special emphasis on the personality of Paul Block, whose Pittsburgh paper broke the story. And while I yield to no man in that which I may describe mildly as my dislike for Paul Block, it isn't necessary for me to point out that Block isn't an issue. Neither is Hearst with his personal grudge against Hugo Black, and equally irrelevant is the fact that many persons who delight in the Klan story are hypocrites who wouldn't object to klannishness if Hugo were a reactionary Republican.

Nothing can be gained by denouncing people who are not involved and even if it be granted for the sake of argument that Paul Block had ulterior motives for breaking the story the question remains the same.

I am afraid our pals on the left have lost their sense in their shock and horror at the discovery, but they will do themselves no good railing at fate, the house fly and crime, meanwhile neglecting the trouble. They ought to calm down, accept the situation, see the doctor and start taking their medicine.

'Life of Emile Zola' Will be Shown at Rio

One of the most notorious scandals in modern history supplies the motivation for the second great Warner Bros. picture within a year based upon the life of a famous Frenchman.

The picture is "The Life of Emile Zola," and the scandal is that surrounding the conviction and imprisonment of Captain Alfred Dreyfus on Devils Island, on a trumped up charge that he had sold important army secrets to Germany. The picture will open soon at the Rio theater.

Not only the great success of "The Story of Louis Pasteur," with Paul Muni in the title role, but also the powerful drama of Zola's picture career as a moulder of public opinion in France, influenced the studio in making this picture. Muni, who won the Academy Award for his Pasteur effort, also has the title role in "Zola."

Zola was France's first great naturalistic novelist. His most sensational work was "I Accuse" in which he viciously attacked everyone who had any part in the condemnation and imprisonment of Dreyfus.

He had become convinced of the officer's innocence, and with characteristic vigor attacked the powerful military hierarchy with all the strength of his command. "I Accuse" was deliberately written to provoke a libel suit.

Joseph Schildkraut, boyhood friend of Muni in Vienna, has the role of Dreyfus.

There are many noted players in the cast, in addition to Muni and Schildkraut.

Sportsmen Await Information on Wisconsin Hunting Regulations

Neenah—With the opening of hunting season only a week away forty members of the Twin City Red and gun club attended a special club meeting held Friday night at Lake Poygan cottage near Winnebago, where they discussed concerning hunting regulations.

Conservation Wardens Chase of Oshkosh and Cramer of Appleton, who talked at the meeting, informed the sportsmen that until Governor LaFollette signs the orders made by the state conservation commission there can be no opening of hunting season.

The warden warned the sportsmen not to be seen in woods with rifles or dogs and rifles at the present time, for a campaign is being carried out against these alleged sportsmen who start hunting before the season opens. Several have already been arrested in Winnebago and neighboring counties.

The warden could give the sportsmen no "lightening information" relative to the opening of either the duck season which is supposed to open in a week or deer season.

They explained that the state conservation commission had ruled that there should be an open deer season this year and set regulations for the rest of the hunting seasons. The orders were turned over for sanction by the governor quite some time ago, but he has failed to sign the orders.

The game warden added that until the governor does sign the orders there can be no official opening of the season, and these caught hunting until the announcement is made will be arrested for violation.

Fall Party Is Held at Church

Waupaca Methodist Sunday School Has Meeting in Church Parlors

Waupaca—Members of the Methodist Sunday school held their first fall party in the church parlors Friday, meeting at a 5 o'clock supper and spent the evening in a social way. Motion pictures taken by Roy Holly while at the scout jamboree in Washington as well as on the good will tour into Canada were features of the entertainment. Attending the jamboree from this vicinity were Mr. Holly and son Tom, Robert Christofferson and Tom Godfrey. On the good will tour were Mr. Holly and son, Roy Jr., William Christofferson, Tom Godfrey and Glen Steiger, Weyauwega.

Seventeen scouts of Twin Lakes council took this latter trip into the Rainy lake region of Canada. The party paddled about 75 miles in various Canadian lakes, portaging from one to another as no two lakes were on the same level, some being 30 and 40 feet above others. At some points they stopped to fish, catching many lake trout, large mouthed black bass and wall-eyed pike. The trip was made in eight canoes which were ready for them when they reached Winton, Minn. From there they were towed by a launch down Fall lake and then portaged four miles by truck. Licenses permitting them to fish were secured in Quetico provincial park. The trip took the group through Basswood lake, Bailey's Harbor, a quarter-mile portage to Sunday lake, a 100-foot portage to Lake Meadow and a portage of five-eighths of a mile to Lake Agnes where they spent two days fishing. On this lake the scout made sales of 100 pounds and were able to sail their canoes down the lake. Several other lakes were traversed by the party.

The return trip included a stop at Interstate park at St. Croix Falls.

Hickory Grove Factory Closed

Score of Farmers Seeking Other Markets for Their Milk
Forest Junction—A score of farmers hitherto delivering their milk to the Hickory Grove cheese factory were seeking other markets for their milk this week with the closing of the factory by John G. Richter, owner. At a meeting of the farmers called by the owner last Monday evening, they were informed that financial difficulties would make continued operation of the plant inadvisable.

The factory had been receiving about 3,000 pounds of milk daily at this season, which is now being divided among other cheese factories in the neighborhood. A milk collection route had been started a few years ago under the previous ownership of Verron Kundiger, who had disposed of the place to Richter in June, 1936. The factory is located on Highway 57, one mile south of Forest Junction.

Signal Practice Ends Rehearsals on Eve of New London Game

Kaukauna—Coach Paul E. Little's Northwestern conference champions tapered off their week's preparations for the tilt with New London this afternoon by running through a light signal practice yesterday afternoon.

Included in the practice was work on returning kick-offs, passing, and place-kicking. Little is developing a fine kicker for the extra point in Carl Jordana. Extra points mattered little in the Kaw eight touchdown triumph over Clintonville last Saturday but today may be a different story. New London and Kaukauna always put on a hard battle no matter how the teams shape up on paper, and today's contest will be all the more bitterly contested because the loser will be definitely out of the conference race.

The Kaws already have lost one game, dropping their opener two weeks ago to Shawano, and a record of two defeats would almost surely eliminate them from title consideration, as there are several strong teams in the league expected to lose, at the most, one game. Little refused to predict the outcome of the game this morning, but ventured the opinion the breaks will count for a good deal.

Louis Ellshemius, famous American painter, calls himself "The Transcendent Eagle of American Art."

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Mertes barbershop on Wisconsin avenue. William Dowling is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.

MIRACULOUS RIDE—The new Packard Six and new Packard Eight (formerly called Packard 120) bring you the gentlest ride ever offered to motorists—a ride that literally re-makes roads!

UNEQUALLED SAFETY—These new Packards are outstanding in safety. Side-sway is eliminated and the danger of skidding is tremendously reduced.

REVOLUTIONARY REAR END—The foregoing things have been accomplished by a trio of epochal improvements which now bring the effect of independent wheel suspension to the rear end.

NEW QUIET BODY—As a result of years of research in cooperation with a great University, Packard brings you a really quiet all-steel body with an all-steel top.

MORE LUXURIOUS SIZE—Both the Packard Eight and Packard Six are seven full inches longer in wheelbase than last year. Bodies are far wider. Trunks challenge those of any cars for roominess.

SERVICE NEEDS CUT—The need for service is still further reduced. Example: Chassis lubrication is now needed only twice a year.

ENDURING BEAUTY—The famous Packard lines are now more beautifully streamlined than ever. But they still proclaim your car a Packard, still guard it from early style obsolescence. Only Packard gives you both long mechanical life and long style life!

EASY AVAILABILITY—YOU can afford one! See your Packard dealer. He will give you proof that, if you can afford to buy and operate any new car, you can afford to buy and operate a Packard!

N. WEBER of the Wisconsin team cracked games of 183, 268 and 236 pins for a 687 total as he led the individual scoring in the Elks Big Ten league games last night on the Elks alley, but the Badgers dropped three straight games to Northwestern. Wisconsin dropped three games to Northwestern, led by Balliet with a 236 game and 582 series and A. Gritzmacher with a 228 game and 627 total. Wrigley Changes His Mind; Bruins Challenge Chi Sox

Chicago—Owner Phil K. Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs doesn't want to be considered "punch-headed" so his club challenged the White Sox to city baseball championship warfare today and was promptly accepted.

Two weeks ago Wrigley turned thumbs down on the city series, saying he didn't believe in "booby prizes," and that the Cubs would either play in the world series or do without postseason competition. After the New York Giants yesterday clinched the National league title he changed his mind to satisfy the fans.

The Sox, victorious in the last four renewals of Chicago's civil war, will defend their title in a four out of seven game set, which probably will be played concurrently with the world series between the Yankees and the Giants which opens Wednesday.

Little Chute Eleven Works Together to Administer 26 to 0 Beating

Little Chute—St. John High school freshmen defeated the Kimberly Frosh eleven 26 to 0 here Friday afternoon in a display of speed and teamwork. The losers fought hard but were outclassed by the fast Little Chute backs and pushed about the field by the fast-charging line.

On the opening kickoff, Bob Hartjes ran the ball 70 yards through the Red Devils and plunged for the point with some fine blocking. In the second quarter, Hurst skirted left end for 25 yards and the second marker. The kick for point was blocked.

After a punt, Baumgardner raced 60 yards through perfect interference for another touchdown. Kimberly's line held to stop the point.

In the last quarter Gordie Lamers plunged over from the 5-yard line after working the ball down the field on line smashes. The point was good on an end run by Lamers.

Marinette Battles to 13-13 Tie With Oshkosh

Oshkosh—Oshkosh and Marinette Highs played to a 13 to 13 tie here last night before a crowd of 1,500 people in a non-conference game. Oshkosh scored all of its points in the first half, planning for a touchdown and placekicks for the extra point and two field goals.

Erditz scored after two tries from the 5-yard line in the first period after a pass was good for 17 yards. He placekicked for the point. In the second period he kicked two field goals to give Oshkosh a 13 to 0 lead. Marinette's first touchdown came after a series of passes and plunges and a penalty for interference. Waubus broke loose on the 21-yard line and tallied with Uke kicking for the point.

Kimberly Highs, St. Mary's Play Scoreless Tie

Papermakers Outplayed in First Half, Threaten in Second

KIMBERLY—The game between the Kimberly High school gridders and St. Mary's Menasha, ended in a scoreless tie at the ball park Friday evening. The Saints outplayed Kimberly in the first half but the Papermakers came back with a vengeance in the second and had the visitors' line looking bad. Menasha had opportunities to score in this half but the line could not hold the hard-charging Papermakers who set the Saints' backfield back for numerous losses. Kimberly threatened to score in this half but penalties for offside ruined the chances.

Menasha won the toss and kicked to Kimberly's 20-yard line where Cliff Parent went to his 25 before being downed. Krueger made five at center and then plunged to his own 35 for a first down. Two tries at center netted four yards and on the next down the Papermakers made a first down on their own 45 with an off tackle smash by De Leeuw.

Exchange Punt
Krueger made six at center and De Leeuw two through right guard. The next play around right end failed to materialize and the Papermakers punted to the Saints' 12. Menasha was penalized twice for offside and punted to Kimberly's 12. A low pass from center was missed but recovered by De Leeuw on his own five. A kick to midfield immediately was downed and an attempted end run lost six yards back to the Saints' 44.

Later a pass, De Young to Van Dyke, to Kimberly's 28 was followed by an end run by De Young to Kimberly's 2-yard line but the play was recalled for back field in motion.

The second quarter saw Van Dyke take a short pass over the line good for three yards to Kimberly's 25. The Saints fumbled on the next play which was recovered by Van Dyke of the Papermakers on the 25. Kimberly punted to the Saints' 45 where the ball was brought back 5 yards. An exchange of punts and frequent penalties by both teams found the half ending with no scoring.

Kimberly kicked to the Saints to open the second half. A pass to Schipferling gave Menasha a first down on the 45 yard stripe. A long pass was intercepted by Van Dyke on his own 32. Line plays failed and the Papermakers punted to the visitors' 45. The Saints were penalized five yards for offside and an exchange of punts gave the Papermakers the ball on their own 40.

A nice run by Weyenberg put the oval on his own 48 but a penalty set the Papermakers back 5 yards on the next play. Kimberly punted to Menasha's 30 as the third quarter ended.

Kimberly Blocks Punt
The fourth quarter saw the Papermakers outcharge the Saints. Menasha was penalized five yards for offside and punted to the Papermakers' 40. An exchange of punts put the ball on the Saints' 17. A drive through center gave the Menasha boys a first down on their own 35. On the next play the Papermakers recovered a fumble on their own 35. Krueger made five at center and an intercepted pass gave the Saints the ball on their 45. The Menasha passer, looking for a receiver, was tossed to their own 35. The Saints' kick was blocked and the Papermakers downed the ball on the Menasha 23.

Two penalties for offside set the Papermakers back and after line plays failed, they kicked to the Saints' 45. Menasha punted to midfield as the game ended.

FWD Truckers to Invade Portage

Clintonville Will Take 22 Gridders to Northern City Sunday

Clintonville—Coach Burdette Ace and a squad of 22 husky FWD Truckers will invade Portage for a gridiron contest with the Portage professional football team, Manager Bob Olen announced today.

With a solid week of heavy night drill under the floodlights at Central park, the squad is in good shape for the contest. Ace said. The new equipment, furnished by the Four Wheel Drive Auto company, will be used.

Cardinal and gold, the team's colors, are expected to continue their lucky omen. The Truckers on Sept. 24 trounced the Appleton Reds, a squad of ex-collegians, 12 to 0. That victory was achieved after the Truckers had had only two weeks of practice.

Now, with intense drills, and muscles made supple but husky by frequent practice, the FWD gridiron squad is ready for a banner season, Olen declared.

October, Football Begin Their Annual Reunion

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—Football and October, which have been going together so long they are regarded as being practically blood relations, met again today with the customary result—big games and big crowds.

With all the members of the respected Big Ten and Ivy league swimming into action and the early starters meeting increasingly strong opposition, attendance at today's major games was expected to go well over the half million mark.

Only the limit of Nebraska stadium's 36,000 capacity held down the crowd at Lincoln where the Cornhuskers dared the might of the Minnesota powerhouse. At Ann Arbor there was a chance of 70,000 turning out to see Michigan's high geared new model seek revenge against Michigan State's Spartans.

GREEN BAY—West Green Bay won its first game of the season here Friday night at the expense of La Crosse Central, defeating the visitors, 13 to 0. The game went into the second quarter before either team threatened.

West made its first score midway in the third quarter when La Crosse lost the ball on its 49 and West ran the ends to place the ball on the La Crosse 21. A penalty gave the Wildcats the ball on the 10. Three plays lost two yards and Deschart tossed a pass to Anderson for a touchdown. The kick was missed. The final score came with three minutes to play in the last half. A fumble on a plunge by West, sent the ball forward where a West man recovered on La Crosse's 10. Powers went off tackle for the touchdown and Koepfen kicked the extra point.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN

Crowds of 45,000 at Columbus for Ohio State-Purdue and 35,000 for Wisconsin-Marquette were expected.

Huskies Visit Trojans
On the west coast Washington's 1936 champions and the comebacking Southern California Trojans looked for 45,000 customers, while slightly smaller crowds were due at the California-Oregon State and Oregon-Stanford clashes.

Although gatherings of around 25,000 for such games as West Virginia-Pittsburgh Carnegie Tech-New York University, Boston College-Kansas State and Manhattan-Texas A. and M. were about tops in the east, there were plenty of good games to increase the attendance total. About the best on the list was the Cornell-Colgate encounter at Ithaca, N. Y., bringing together two upstate New York gridiron powers.

Intersectional Flavor
A rich list of intersectional contests throughout the country were headed by Army-Clemson, Navy-Citadel, Pennsylvania-Maryland, Princeton-Virginia, Vanderbilt-Chicago, Colorado-Missouri and Louisiana State-Texas. The last named was expected to draw the south's largest crowd, some 20,000 and furnish, perhaps, one of the day's closest tussles.

Continuing its intra-conference and inter-league tussles, the south offered a big list of other major games, including North Carolina-State, Davidson-Duke, South Carolina-Georgia, Tulane-Auburn and Alabama-Sevance.

Arkansas, southwest conference champion and Texas Christian, its rival for aerial honors, met in another promising tussle. Utah versus Brigham Young and Utah State-Montana State topped the Rocky Mountain conference slate.

Turn up games include Notre Dame-Drake, Northwestern-Iowa State and Illinois-De Paul in the Mid West.

Red Birds Peek Out Another Win

Columbus Takes Third in Row 6-4, Needs Only One More

Newark, N. J. — (By) — Old Man Slump, bugaboo of athletes of every sort, seems to have definitely caught up with the Newark Bears after a full baseball season on the outside looking in.

Not once during the long International league campaign did the undesirable one show himself on the Newark bench. The Bears sailed along serenely, never lost more than three games in a row—that was only once—won the league pennant by a record margin of 23½ games and swept through the post-season playoffs without losing a start.

But with the little world series against Columbus came Mr. Slump. The Newark defense went to pieces, the hitters didn't hit so well and the pitchers, naturally, didn't look so good. The Red Birds won the first game with the help of actual errors and errors in judgment, the second game the same way. Then last night they went three up by combining their best hitting of the series with more errors to win, 6 to 3, before 17,000 spectators.

The teams took a train for Columbus, O., immediately after the game and were to meet the fourth time there tonight. Columbus needed to win only one more to sweep the series.

Annual Schuetzen Of Rifle Club Is Scheduled Sunday

Firing will start at 9 o'clock in the morning with small bore rifles. There will be cash prizes in the various classes. and has played such teams as La-Crosse, Stambaugh, Mich., and the Goebie Panthers. Last week the Reds performed before a large crowd here and defeated Manitowish. The previous Friday night the team lost to Clintonville at Clintonville.

Berken Too Much, Menasha Defeated By West DePere Hi

for a pass, ran neatly to a first down on the 16. A succession of laterals, Floyd to Heiss to Drucks, gained three, but Floyd fumbled on the next play, Gevers recovering for the Phantoms on the 12.

The Phantoms held the ball until the end of the quarter. With the wind behind his back, Berken unleashed a 70 yard kick, Heiss returning the ball to the 25. The Bluejays started another drive that took them to the DePere 33 before being forced to punt. Drucks pounded out a first down on the 45, gaining 20 yards on the play. Floyd and Michalkiewicz made a first down on the DePere 41 aided by a 5-yard offside penalty. Three plays left 7 yards to go and Michalkiewicz punted to the 9 where the ball was downed.

West DePere started a march that led straight down the field to a touchdown. Berken took the ball 22 yards to the 31. Vassen hit the line for four and Berken made it first down on the 42. Two plays gained only two yards and Berken tossed a perfect pass to Heesacker for a first down on the 37. In four plays Vassen and Berken added another first down on the 25. Berken and Heesacker left inches to go for a first down on three plunges. On the fourth, Berken seemed to be hit three times but drove around right end for a touchdown. Kolasinski kicked Vassen's attempt for the extra point. Score: West DePere 6, Menasha 0.

Menasha took the kickoff, Kolasinski returning to the 42. The half ended with Menasha in possession of the ball.

The Bluejays kicked to West DePere at the opening of the second half. Vassen made a first down on the 35 before Berken fumbled and Drucks recovered on the Phantom 26-yard line. Finch scooted around his right end for 7 yards but Drucks fumbled on the next play. DePere recovering on the 20. The Phantoms were held for no gain and Berken punted out on the 35.

Pass Defense Good

Finch ran for a first down on the 25 when he found no pass receivers open. The West DePere pass defense kept the receivers well covered throughout the game. Two more Menasha passes missed connections. An offside on the Phantoms left inches to go for a first down. Heiss made the necessary distance on a quarterback sneak but Berken intercepted a pass on the goal line to end another threat.

On a fake punt Berken ran to the 40 from the 8. However, the play was recalled and DePere penalized to the 4 for holding. Berken's fourth down punt went out on the 15. Floyd picked up 5 when he found no one to pass to and then tossed a short one to Drucks in the corner for a touchdown. Buksyk kicked the point with Heiss holding. Score: Menasha 7, West DePere 6.

West DePere received and carried the ball to the 25 before the end of the quarter. On fourth down Berken punted to Heiss who returned to the 48. West was called for clipping and Menasha received a first down on the 40. Three plays picked up five yards, more than offset by a 15 yard penalty for holding by Menasha, and Heiss punted out on the 32.

Berken cut loose with a first down on the 44, again after he seemed to be stopped. Two plays gained 3 yards and then Schneider and Kolasinski hit Berken for a 4 yard loss. Berken punted from the 45 to the goal line, Heiss returning to the 9.

Berken Scores Again
Floyd was good for 5, a misguided attempt at a lateral lost 2 and on fourth down Heiss punted out on the 43. The passing combination of Berken to Heesacker was immediately good for a first down on the 26 yard line, a 17-yard gain. Berken made 2. West was offside on the next play but Berken drove around the left end of his line for a first down on the Menasha 5. Vassen gained a yard and then Berken drove into the line for a touchdown. Vassen added the extra point on a placekick. Score: West DePere 13, Menasha 7.

Heiss returned the kickoff to the 20. Four futile passes fell incomplete before the game ended. There was bruising contact throughout the game, several players from both sides being forced out temporarily with injuries.

Janet, the Lord Baltimore hotel, Prescott Fanning, the taxicab, Good God! Fanning doped me! he thought. But how? I was watching him. The dope must have been in the wet glass when he brought it from the bathroom! Oh, God! What a fool I was!

Neill went through his pockets. His money had not been touched, but a glance in the other side of his wallet told him his papers had been ransacked. So Fanning knew now that he was a treasury department agent. Only one thing had been taken: a photograph of Janet. When he thought of Janet, he turned sick with anxiety. What had happened to her? He ran to the phone and called up the smart dress shop on Charles street where she worked. A woman's voice, refined and delicious, said:

"When will she be in?" "I don't expect to see her again. She sent me a telegram this morning resigning her position. She has left me flat. It is the most inconsiderate..."

Neill was not interested in Madame Annette's feelings. He hung up. Janet gone! He could not take it in fully. Gone?

He took down the receiver again and called up the flat that she shared with a girl pal. A sickening wait while he listened to the double buzz of the bell ringing at the other end. No answer. Remembering what Eyster had told him, he called up the City pier to ask about the yacht Nadi. She had pulled out at 7:30 the previous evening, he was told. At 7:30 Fanning had been with Neill. But of course they could have joined the yacht at some other point later. Where was the yacht bound? Through the Chesapeake and Delaware canal, he was told, and out to sea.

He rose and paced the room in an agony of distress, not knowing what to do. Janet's friend was a student at the Maryland institute and he didn't know how to reach her by phone.

A Cab Driver Reports In a moment or two his telephone rang and he ran to the instrument with a wild hope of hearing Janet's voice. No such luck. It was the clerk downstairs saying:

"There's a young man here wants to see you. He says you don't know his name. I think he's a taxi-driver."

"Send him up," said Neill. It was a wizened little fellow in nondescript clothes with an engaging grin. So far as Neill could remember, he had never seen him before. He said, grinning:

"My name is Johnny Tingstrom. I'm the guy that picked up you and the other guy at the Lord Baltimore at 7:30 last night."

Neill spread his arm and jerked him through the door. "For God's sake what happened?" "Wait a minute," Tingstrom laughed. "The other guy, he tells me to drive to the Belvedere..."

"I remember that."

"When we are coming up the hill beside the Peabody he raps on the glass and says: 'My friend has passed out cold.' So I pull into the curb and gets out and we look at you and shakes you. You was in the gauze all right. Paralyzed. So the guy says: 'He lives at the Stafford. We better take him home and put him to bed.' And I says: 'Okay, boss.'"

"So I drives to the Stafford and we take you in, one on each side. The clerk and the hallboys and the other guys in the lobby, they get a big laugh seeing you brought in cold so early in the evening. So me and the other guy we lays you on your bed and beat it. I drives him to the Belvedere."

"Now I thinks there's something funny about this business. You was perfectly steady when you got in my car. You passed out too quick. So I made up my mind to take a little time out to investigate. So after I dropped him I turns back, and I sees the guy coming out of the Belvedere and getting into a private car."

"Did you get his license number?" asked Neill.

"Sure, but that won't do you no good because I looked it up myself later, and it was only a drive-yourself car, hired for the evening. It was brought back to the garage at 6:30 by the guy who was driving it. They thought it was funny because he hadn't had it out but little over an hour."

A Wonderful Looking Girl "What did the driver look like?" "A hell of a big guy with heavy shoulders."

"I've seen the man. Go on." "From the Belvedere they drives to a house on Calvert street and picks up a young lady. Gee! a wonderful looking girl, boss! She was wearing a pink dress and a black velvet wrap; light brown hair and blue eyes that looks almost black at night. There was something about her, you know, something that strikes a man down. I mean any man, even a poor hackie like me."

"Get on! Get on!" said Neill irritably. "I know what she looks like."

"Pardon me, boss. From Calvert street they drives to the Hotel Milner on Cathedral with me following. At the Milner they picks up a couple."

"Describe them."

"Well, I don't get a very good look because I don't dare get close. A youngish couple, the doll was all fixed up swell, but not like the young lady. Too much paint. And the guy, he is just one of these ordinary guys who dresses up like a sore finger and goes out at night when some other guy is paying."

"Go on."

"They starts downtown with me following, but at this hours the streets is almost empty and the big guy, when he gets on to the fact that he's being trailed and passes the word to his driver. They begins to speed up and to turn one corner after another to try to shake me off."

"And you lost them?"

"It was no fault of mine, boss. I was stopped by a cop at the corner of Madison and East. It is always the way in this world; the crook gets away and the honest guy gets a ticket."

Familiar Faces At 'State' Prove Its Popularity

Well-Known Eating Place Attracts Steady Flow Of Patrons

There must be some good reasons why familiar faces continue to reappear at the New State Restaurant. They must like the atmosphere of friendliness and courtesy, the excellent foods, satisfying service, and reasonable prices. These combined, perhaps, explain why new admiration is expressed daily by its constant flow of patrons.

To many people, the pleasure of enjoying fine foods and distinctive surroundings suggests high prices. But this does not hold true at the State. When all is said and done dining in this comfortable and attractive restaurant costs considerably less than in places of comparable quality.

There is harmony, too, in its service. For proof, come in today and enjoy a real meal minus the usual hustle and bustle characteristic of many restaurants. Its waitresses and chefs get along in perfect harmony. You will experience a minimum of waiting, no loud shouting, no wrong orders, just efficient service in a way you are sure to approve of.

Then, too, food, in order to taste good must be prepared under the most sanitary conditions and that accounts in a large measure for the success of this popular eating place. Cleanliness is uppermost in the minds of those who serve you. The dishes are sure to be clean for the State Restaurant "scalds them, rubs them, rinses them, dries them" until they are sparkling clean.

The State is open at all hours, day and night, in order to accommodate its daily visitors and to refresh party-goers and other celebrants who decide to top-off their night's fun regardless of the hour with a late-hour lunch. Make it a point to visit the State soon. You will find it the ideal place to go for early morning breakfast or throughout the day.

Treasury Rejects Bids Of 14 Rubber Concerns

Washington—The treasury announced Friday it had referred to the justice department and the federal trade commission evidence the treasury said showed that 14 rubber companies had submitted identical bids for the sale of tire and tubes to the government.

All the bids were rejected, the treasury said, after Attorney General Cummings gave an opinion that "the conclusion was justified that these identical bids were the result of collusion and of a combination in restraint of trade."

Cummings suggested, the treasury said, that "the whole matter be referred to the department of justice with a view to prosecution."

Accordingly, the announcement continued, all the bids and other data were referred to the justice department and the trade commission "for action."

After rejecting the bids, Secretary Morgenthau negotiated an independent contract for the purchase of about $1,000,000 of tires and tubes from Sears, Roebuck and Company of Chicago, which had not entered any bids.

Plants played an important part in the lives of the early people of the territory now comprised in Zion National Park, Utah. Games animals were killed for meat but scientific evidence indicates plant food was the chief diet of the prehistoric inhabitants.
